

County Suit Will Proceed

Judge Wilkie Rules Outagamie Has Valid Action in Site Change

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Outagamie County's suit to block development of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay on its east-side Shorewood site may proceed, a Dane County Circuit Court Judge ruled today.

Ruling on a demurrer motion brought by the state in an attempt to kill the suit, Judge Edwin Wilkie held that the suit may proceed and granted the state 20 days to answer the county's original complaint, which attempts to stop development of the planned campus because of alleged secrecy in deliberations in picking the site.

The ruling is expected to strengthen the hand of Outagamie County legislative foes of the Shorewood site who are attempting to halt campus development through a bill to move the institution and through a fight on the State Building Commission over the release of planning funds for the new school.

The decision on whether to release $250,000 for the North-eastern Wisconsin school must be made by Aug. 14 if the campus is to have even the slightest chance to open in the fall of 1968, campus planners contend.

The bill to move the site of the West-side Larsen Farm has been passed by the Assembly and sent to the Senate, where its main supporter, Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, says he does not want action taken until a planned October session.

If the favorable court ruling aids Lorge in that effort, the school could not be opened for students until at least September 1970.

The state's demurrer motion had contended that Outagamie County and taxpayers backing the suit could not proceed in their attempt because of alleged errors in the legal procedures that they had followed.

The state argued that the statute of limitations governing such suits had run out before the contest was started and that the county had followed the wrong route in taking its suit against the state directly into Circuit Court.

Normal Procedures

The decision more than a year ago by the statutory site selection committee which picked the Shorewood site should first have been appealed to that committee through normal administrative procedures, the state argued.

The county replied that the statute of limitations had not expired before any court action was started and that the special nature of the site fight suit made proper the appeal directly to the Circuit Court.

The case is the first major court test of the state's anti-secrecy statute governing the meetings of public bodies.

In an earlier ruling on a similar motion, Judge Wilkie had said that the test is of major importance and of interest to all of the people of the state and should be allowed to proceed.

That ruling was handed down before the state's demurrer was entered and has been strengthened by Judge Wilkie's late opinion.

Vietnam Veterans Tighten Clamp on Riot-Torn Detroit

...Everybody Started Firing at Everybody

BY FRANK S. JOSEPH

DETROIT (AP) — The fire that broke out at Linwood and Vicksburg at 2:15 a.m. today may still burn as you read these words.

The firemen were supposed to put it out, but they couldn't. They were caught in a crossfire of bullets. They never got past Virginia Park Avenue, a block away.

Three Detroit policemen were shot during the exchange of gunfire, which went on for more than an hour. One is in critical condition, two are in serious condition.

The fire broke out in a halfblock stretch of stores and apartments.

The snipers started firing when the firemen arrived, so the police and the National Guard were called in. Then everybody started firing at everybody and it's hard to tell just who shot whom.

Two firemen and a newsman sat huddled against the side of a fire engine, breathing tear gas and watching the Guardsmen shoot. The three weren't armed, so they just crouched against the truck and cried tear-gas tears.

"Yep, looks like they had a 4,000-volt line in there," the other said.

Then there were shots, so they all shut up and squeezed smaller.

"Here we are in the middle of a war," said the first fireman, "with no weapons, no way out and our thumbs stuck up our noses."

The newsman said he'd like to get to a phone so he could tell his office about all this. He started for his car. Some three blocks back, but he was greeted by sniper fire.

"I think it would be unwise of you to leave," one of the firemen told him.

After a while, though, an armored personnel carrier, which looks like a 20-foot-long, olive drab gravity boat on wheels, lumbered past going in the right direction. So the newsman said goodbye to the firemen and ran behind it.

The personnel carrier only went as far as a group of National Guardsmen and police who were crouching behind several Jeeps near Linwood and Philadelphia avenues. They were pointing their weapons at a second-floor window across the street.

Somebody fired at them, or so it seemed. They crouched behind the Jeeps and began firing back. The newsman crouched, too.

Soon the firefight turned into a constant roar of hot lead. The newsman sprawled flat. Shell casings hit him on the head.

After a while, the Guardsmen decided to stop firing. They did and nobody sniped back. So they got into their Jeeps and carriers and drove on.

The newsman, who wasn't sure the sniper was tired of the game, ran the half-block to his car at a low crouch.

He found that somebody had shot away the rear window, but the engine started when he turned the key.

23 Die in Michigan Violence

DETROIT (AP) — Ordered into action by President Johnson, Army paratroopers clamped an iron lid on Detroit today, and calm returned at least for the moment, after 48 hours of killing, pillaging and burning.

Some new fires broke out. Sporadic sniper fire splattered against walls and sidewalks.

But the presence of the paratroopers — 40 per cent of them combat tested in Vietnam — appeared to have brought a lull in the wild Negro rioting that laid waste to huge sections of the city and claimed 23 lives.

Cyrus Vance, special assistant in the Defense Department and Johnson's deputy at the scene, urged businesses and industries to reopen.

He asked citizens to come back to jobs, but the plea went largely unheeded. The center of the city was virtually a ghost town.

Curfew Remains

Gov. George Romney, appearing with Vance and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh at a news conference, said a curfew would remain in effect indefinitely as would an order closing bars, liquor stores, gasoline stations and all places of entertainment.

"Due to an apparent improvement in the over-all situation, Gov. Romney, Mayor Cavanagh and I are requesting businesses, retail stores and industries to

Integrated Thieves

Looters Have No Color Barriers

EDITOR'S NOTE — The riots in Detroit have not followed the same pattern of development set in Harlem in 1964 and followed closely ever since. Reporter Austin Scott, who has been on the scene for nine of these civil uprisings explores the different turn taken by Detroit.

By AUSTIN SCOTT

DETROIT (AP) — The large sign chalked on a white scrawl across the charred doorway read "Black Power," but Detroit's second day of violence was aimed not so much at skin color as at color television sets.

In no other riot-sacked city has there been such wholesale cooperation between Negroes and whites queuing up like happy locusts for a running grab at life's luxuries.

Shiny Cadillacs, some 1967 models, some driven by Negroes and some by whites, lined up along Grand River Avenue, looting a furniture store.

Monday morning to be stowed with everything from stuffed pandas to dining room tables.

A red-haired white man directed operations as dozens of Negroes disappeared into the murky depths of a furniture store basement, emerging with two portable television sets clutched in each hand.

Late Sunday night a happy mob of Negroes and whites busily looting a furniture store politely asked permission from a white homeowner across the street before dragging their stolen plunder through his yard.

"If it was my store I'd shoot," said a blond motorcyclist as he gleefully watched several dozen Negroes loot a series of small, white-owned shops. "But it ain't, so I don't give a damn. This is a real education."

Other signs of interracial hostility connected with riots were curiously absent.

Whites who dared to drive along Jefferson Avenue in Buffalo seldom escaped without at least one cracked automobile window from a predictable hail of bottles and rocks.

But whites drove up and down Grand River Avenue and 14th Street all Monday, hanging their heads out of windows, stopping to gawk at looters, and getting only friendly waves from the integrated sidewalk crowds.

Mild Derision

White reporters risked beatings to enter Tampa's Central Park Housing Project, but they walked Detroit's streets all day, even without their customary hard helmets, and ran into only mild derision.

Newsman who met only hostile stares in Chicago or violence in Watts, found Detroit residents eager to talk about their own problems with the violence.

Unlike Cleveland or San Francisco, or even Harlem in 1964, almost as many people over 25 as under saw "a piece of the action." Matrons in their fifties leaped nimbly over show wind-dolls to grab a lamp, an end table or a lightweight chair, then scurried down the street.

Where It's Happening

WASHINGTON — President Johnson ordered federal troops into Detroit, saying that "riots, looting and public disorder will not be tolerated."

DETROIT — Chaotic rioting over two days has caused 23 deaths and brought property damage in excess of $150 million.

NEW YORK — Spanish Harlem's Puerto Rican population staged a full-scale riot, burning, looting, shooting with police. Two died in the outbreak. See Page 10.

CAMBRIDGE, Md. — About 1,000 Negroes roamed the street and two blacks went up in flames. H. Rapp Brown of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was slightly wounded and charged with inciting to riot. See Page 11.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Two died in violence that marked the third anniversary of rioting that took four lives in 1964. See Page 11.

PONTIAC, Mich. — The city 25 miles north of Detroit rocked with fire-bombing and looting. Two were killed. See Page 10.

Other disturbances were reported in Toledo, Ohio; Grand Rapids, and Flint, Mich.; Houston, Tex.; Englewood, N.J., and Tucson, Ariz.

Confers With President

Pope Paul Arrives For Talks in Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — he stepped onto the soil of a Pope Paul VI arrived in Moslem Turkey today on a two-day mission to discuss peace in the Middle East, the holy places of Jerusalem and ways to end 900 years of division between Roman Catholic and Orthodox Christians.

Within two hours of his arrival, the Pope conferred privately with President Cevdet Sunay and other top officials. Informants said Pope Paul appealed to them to mediate the dispute between Israel and the Arabs.

The 69-year-old Pope was the first pontiff in 12 centuries to visit the former citadel of Eastern Christianity. The last was Pope Constantine I in 711.

Follows Quake

Traveling on a four-engine commercial jetliner, Pope Paul arrived three days after a disastrous earthquake spread widespread destruction in Anatolia, southeast of Istanbul, killing at least 86 persons.

Stepping from his plane, the Pope told the Turkish leaders greeting him: "Arriving in this country immediately after a cataclysm that has plunged the nation in mourning, we turn our thoughts first to those who have suffered and ask all to join with us in a moment of observance."

President Sunay, Premier Suleyman Demirel and other high officials stood near the plane's ramp to greet the spiritual ruler of the world's half billion Roman Catholics as daughter.

Killed in Action

OSHKOSH (AP) — Army Sgt. James R. Fischer, 21, died in Vietnam July 23 of metal fragment wounds suffered in combat, his wife, Linda, of Oshkosh, was informed today by the Defense Department.

Fischer, a 1965 graduate of Oshkosh High School, also is spiritual ruler of the world's half billion Roman Catholics as daughter.

Two Killed in Spanish Harlem Violence

NEW YORK (AP) — Rioting thrown from roofs and windows, Puerto Ricans, dodging their own rooftop snipers and police bullets, charged again early today through the slum streets of Spanish Harlem, setting fires out their hoses while skipping with tossed cans of stolen oil into flaming missiles.

Firemen answering calls throughout the area stretched out their hoses while skipping with tossed cans of stolen oil into flaming missiles.

Rock Throwing

In the Bronx, police grabbed garbage can lids to defend themselves from flying rocks. Looters smashed into a jewelry shop and set a five and ten cent store aflame.

Jose Torres, former world lightweight champion, who sought for a second time to talk peace in Spanish with the Harlem youths, said, "They think the colored people got a lot, you know, by violence and they want to do the same thing."

Explaining why the riots continued, one youth said, "We're working off our frustrations." A plainclothesman standing nearby replied, "You got frustrations, kid, go for a swim, but don't hang around here and hurt somebody."

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department Monday announced that Army Spec. 4 Roger Goldsmith, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hallie Goldsmith, of Black River Falls, Wis., was killed in action in Vietnam.

For the first time since they began early Sunday, the disorders jumped the Harlem River from Manhattan and spread to a largely Puerto Rican section of the Bronx. Looting broke out and a youth was shot in the arm.

More than 1,000 policemen in helmets and steel vests chased, roving bands of 2,000 youths through a 125-square block area of Manhattan, taking cover to empty their revolvers at snipers hidden in tenement windows, then thrashing rioters with their nightsticks.

Worst Rioting

It was full-scale rioting and the worst of three straight nights of lesser disturbances in El Barrio — the neighborhood in Spanish — cramped, steamy home to a large segment of the city's 850,000 Puerto Ricans.

It took a heavy rain at 3 a.m. to do what police found so difficult — get the unruly mobs off the streets and indoors.

A 44-year-old Puerto Rican woman, hit by what officers said was a .22-caliber bullet, died shortly after a young Puerto Rican man was found fatally injured with a broken neck. Dozens were injured, including five policemen.

The rioting again stopped short of the unmarked frontiers that separate Spanish or East Harlem from the luxury apartments of the upper East Side and the squalor of central Harlem's Negro masses.

Paths of Glass

Gleaming paths of shattered glass showed the progress of the riot as it spread from 95th street to 121st Street along Third Avenue, bulging in some spots to Second and First avenues on the east and Lexington, Park and Madison avenues on the west.

Fire flashed from trash cans

Shotgun in hand, he appeared on almost every corner, burst at police headquarters to make from flying gasoline-filled bottles a statement on the shooting.

He said the idea of looting had a vision mobile unit. From a gas spread from Detroit to Pontiac, station, rioters took cans of oil, "like a prairie fire." He said and de-icer and turned them Republican Gov. George Romo away from bottles and rocks they "should declare the whole

'Price You Pay' Lawmaker Kills Looter In Pontiac Disturbance

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Racial violence broke loose in Pontiac, with two Negroes shot and killed today, one by a white state legislator who declared, "This is the price you have to pay for making a living."

A sniper's shotgun also wounded a policeman as fire bombings and looting hit the city of 82,000 only 25 miles northwest of riot-torn Detroit.

State Rep. Arthur J. Law, a Pontiac Democrat, said he fired his 12-gauge shotgun at half a dozen Negro youths after they had hurled a trash can through the plate-glass window of a food market he has owned since 1948 in a heavily Negro area. Pontiac has 15,000 Negro residents.

"I knew I hit one," said Law, 61, a veteran legislator who has campaigned for stiffer penalties against violent crimes. Killed was Alfred Taylor, 17, of Pontiac. Two of the youth's companions were injured.

Fire Bombing

Law said he was protecting his market after it had been damaged earlier in a fire bombing.

Shotgun in hand, he appeared on almost every corner, burst at police headquarters to make from flying gasoline-filled bottles a statement on the shooting.

He said the idea of looting had a vision mobile unit. From a gas spread from Detroit to Pontiac, station, rioters took cans of oil, "like a prairie fire." He said and de-icer and turned them Republican Gov. George Romo away from bottles and rocks they "should declare the whole with faces as impish as those produced by successful girlish pranks.

Looters Not Segregated In Detroit

At Grand River and Larchmont four men carted a console television halfway across the street, put it down in the center lane and ran away laughing. "Soul brother" signs on store windows were no guarantee against shattered glass.

Drivers Embarrassed

"It wasn't real," said one on-looker. "The looters didn't care who saw them. The drivers were embarrassed watching."

Negro leaders were puzzled by the lack of demands upon the city that usually come quickly after the first outbreak of violence.

The leaders approved a statement blaming the violence on "a small number of hoodlums and hatemongers." But no one said why the festive atmosphere in the streets Monday was so radically changed from hateful stares and sniping Sunday night.

The odd racial checkerboard of Detroit's slums supplies a partial answer.

Except along 12th Street, an almost entirely Negro neighborhood, the areas where Detroit's violence was born are integrated.

Body Dumped

About two hours earlier, the body of Bobby Reeves, 25, was tossed out of a white Cadillac small groups of whites — and convertible at Pontiac General occasional large ones — slipped into the Negro neighborhoods.

Matter of Cooperation

Window smashing and looting body was taken to the hospital, seemed in some cases to be a police said a white grocer told matter of community cooperation. A white boy and a young Negro each carried one handle of a garbage can piled high with new clothes.

Whites picked up and returned packages that dropped from the huge piles carried by police, reinforced by state some Negroes. Trading of bounties, sheriff's deputies and ty was common even across racial lines.

A fire that destroyed a large brick store was said by witnesses to have been set by gasoline bombs made on a nearby corner by a Negro youth, as a white ed, said Police Chief William man looked on.

"This isn't a race riot," a weary police sergeant complained off U.S. 10, the main mented Monday as he watched highway leading into town from the passing parade of looters. "It's a riot of thieves."

Army Paratroopers Put Lid on Detroit

Resume normal operations with residents using caution and good judgment," Vance said.

But main arteries of the nation's fifth largest city were all but sealed by fear of the dwinteism kept assembly lines at a crawl.

Expressways that crisscross the city were nearly deserted. Those abroad in cars gawked at the miles of smashed shop windows and smoldering debris. Out-of-state licenses were numerous.

"A lot of these looters and burners are from Ohio," said a Negro police captain. "They come in trucks and cars and load up with the good stuff like liquor and TV sets. Then they clear things out and set fires."

In heavily damaged areas Negroes and whites alike served coffee to weary troops. Small knots of people gathered on street corners, but they were in a friendly, chatty mood.

Hundreds Injured

Reports of injuries mounted, but apparently there was no way to get an accurate count. Official estimates ranged from 600 to more than 1,000.

Hundreds, possibly thousands, had become refugees, burned out of homes or jobs.

City agencies seeking ways to help refugees said many were start sniping at us, and they're going to get one hell of a surprise.

The paratroopers, 1,800 from the 101st and 82nd Airborne Divisions under Lt. Gen. John J. Throckmorton, were ordered into action late Monday night as within striking distance of key trouble spots.

As the second night of violence ended, however, the character of rioting appeared to have changed. Arson and looting, set off by Negroes early Sunday and later joined by whites, dropped sharply.

Sniper fire increased, with most of it concentrated on police and Guardsmen.

Automatic rifle fire that cracked in the streets off and on during the night, ended before dawn as heavy sieges were lifted at three police precincts.

Guardsmen used a tank and two big trucks to smash a siege by snipers at the East Side 5th Precinct near where a fireman was shot down while battling a blaze and less than a mile from exclusive, all-white Grosse Pointe.

Two Wounded

The battle there and an earlier two-hour firefight several blocks away in which two Guardsmen were wounded dramatized a sudden shift in rioting to miles from where it erupted Sunday with a police raid on a Negro night club.

Associated Press photographing the area reported devastation equal or surpassing that on the near West Side and Northwest Side where whole sections of blocks, 10 to 15 at a time in some areas, were torched by looters and arsonists Sunday and Monday and burned or smoldered into today.

Harass Firemen

Firemen harassed by snipers—at least one was killed by gunfire—and shorthanded as the flames continued to spread, were forced to let some of the smaller fires burn unchecked.

Arrests stood at 2,000 with 300 booked already and hundreds more in custody. Bond was set at $200,000 for two accused snipers at a predawn arraignment.

phers Eddie Adams, a veteran of front line photography in Vietnam, saw the two Guardsmen gunned down in the East Side fire fight at an intersection.

"We were pinned down," he said. "Then the Guardsmen pulled out, so I got out of there. Their radio told them. Shoot anything that moves."

Guard Lt. Richard Starr, Grand Rapids, led the attack on a rundown hotel, lifting the siege on the 5th Precinct.

"They found nothing," he said. "There was someone up there, but they got away."

The first wave of paratroopers was deployed on the East Side.

Associated Press newsmen touring the area reported devastation equal or surpassing that on the near West Side and Northwest Side where whole sections of blocks, 10 to 15 at a time in some areas, were torched by looters and arsonists Sunday and Monday and burned or smoldered into today.

Attempt to Censure Laborite Economic Policies Is Defeated

LONDON (AP) — A Conservative motion to censure Britain's Labor government for its economic policies was roundly defeated in the House of Commons Monday night 333-240. "The government majority of 93 was just three votes short of its maximum voting margin. The censure motion was beaten after both the Conservatives and Laborites had denied any intention of devaluing the pound."

Violence flared for a second night in two predominantly Negro sections Monday night and early today leaving two men shot to death and a youth wounded before police restored order.

The disturbance was pin-sized compared with a racial riot that began three years ago on July 24, 1964. That riot claimed five lives and resulted in nearly $1 million property damage.

Several hundred Negroes, mainly young people, began gathering about mid-evening Monday along Jefferson Avenue in the Third Ward and on Joseph Avenue in the Seventh Ward, on either side of the downtown business area.

Many of them hurled fire bombs and others looted business places, including a gun store, where police said six ri-shot to death and a youth wounded before police restored order.

Police fatally wounded Tommie Wright, 22, a Negro, who, police said, attempted to drive an automobile through a road-block.

Later, they wounded Calvin Wilson, 17, also a Negro, when they said, he attempted to flee after being spotted by police while allegedly looting a dry goods store.

He was reported in good condition in a hospital.

Found Dead

Another Negro, Charles Ammons, 28, was found shot to death in an alley. Police theorized he had been shot elsewhere.

Several hours before day-break, a police spokesman said the violence had ebbed to a standstill. There was to be little rest, however, for police who were ordered to work 12 hour shifts beginning at 6 p.m. today.

More than 500 policemen, armed with tear gas and some with shotguns, were on duty with 484 assigned to street patrolling. They were augmented by 30 Monroe County deputy sheriffs who were sent into the Seventh Ward. Twenty other deputies and 60 policemen in suburban towns were on standby.

Militant Group

Shortly after midnight, the Rev. Franklin D. R. Florence, former president of the militant civil rights organization FIGHT, and 30 other Negroes attempted to enter the Public Safety Building. They were turned away.

Minutes later, Public Safety Commissioner Mark B. Tuohy met with Florence and DeLeon Even, FIGHT president, and three other Negroes.

"I told them what I thought of all the shooting and I would not stand for it," Tuohy said. "I asked them to leave and they prepared earlier to enter the riot-torn area to arrest Brown."

Tuohy described the Monday night crowds as more "reckless, vocal and agitated" than Sunday's.

Three years ago, city police and 450 state police combined in the forehead by a shotgun make 976 arrests. More than 200 were injured and released stores were looted.

At the height of the 1964 riot, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller ordered 1,200 National Guardsmen into the city. They were not used to stem the outburst, however.

Flames Sweep Maryland City

SNCC Chairman H. Rap Brown Wounded in Riot

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — Police loaded with National Guardsmen rolled into Cambridge today in an attempt to quell looting and racial rioting that left two square blocks in flames and two persons wounded.

The Negro Second Ward was sealed off and policemen and Guardsmen backed up by two battalions of Guardsmen ringed the perimeter of the area.

The violence, which included the wounding of H. Rap Brown, national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and a white policeman, followed a volatile speech to about 400 Negroes Monday night by Brown.

Negro Looting

At the height of the riot, about 1,000 Negroes looted and torched the streets.

State and local officials had asked them to leave and they prepared earlier to enter the riot-torn area to arrest Brown.

Tuohy described the Monday night crowds as more "reckless, vocal and agitated" than Sunday's.

Two Rural Men Held in Arson Plot

Set for Court Appearance on Solicitation Charge

Two rural Appleton men, ages 36 and 42, were scheduled to be arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 at 3:30 p.m. today on charges of solicitation to commit arson.

The men were taken into custody at their homes about 11:30 a.m. today by Sheriff Norbert Marx and Undersheriff Calvin L. Spice, after a complaint was issued by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer and warrants were signed by Judge Gustave J. Keller. The crime constitutes a felony, according to Schaefer.

Charges were brought against the two men following investigation by sheriff's department authorities and State Fire Marshal Earl Schwalbe of Green Bay.

The men allegedly had contacted another rural Appleton man July 19 relative to the setting fire to a house owned by the 36-year-old man in Menominee County, Mich. The alleged contact was made in the Town of Grand Chute.

Authorities contend that the alleged arson, had it been committed, was with intent to defraud the insurer of the home in Michigan.

Firemen Called to Rubbish Fire at Stop and Go Store

A rubbish fire behind the Stop and Go Store, 319 E. Calumet St., brought out Appleton firemen, with several units, shortly before 3 a.m. today.

Firemen, who were told that smoke was coming from the store, found that someone had set fire to a paper and rubbish container behind the store.

Firemen, who remained at the scene, said someone may have discarded a cigarette into the refuse.

Smoke and flames were shooting high into the air, giving the appearance the store was on fire.

At 11:53 a.m. Monday, firemen were called to wash down oil that spilled from a sump pump at the J. C. Penney Co., 300 W. College Ave.

New Kimberly School Budget Adopted at Stormy Hearing

Opponents Hoped to Cut Funds From $1,883,342 Proposal

KIMBERLY — A 1967-68 budget of $1,883,342, which represents a hike of $242,499 over the previous year, was adopted by the electorate of Joint School District No. 6 after a stormy hearing Monday night.

A small contingent of the approximately 110 persons present felt the continuous climb of the annual school budget should be stopped and contended that $150,000 could be pared from the total without jeopardizing the standards set by the district.

The theory was based on a $41,839 surplus that remained from last year's proposal. However, it was explained, altering proposed programs and the failure to hire personnel previously requested caused the surplus.

91-20 Vote
The proposed budget finally received a recommendation for about 55 gallons of gasoline presentation to the annual meeting by a 91-20 vote.

The budget represents a 20 per cent increase of one mill over the previous year. The total budget figure, which is almost a 15 per cent jump in the salary schedule, extra-curricular pay schedule and increased fringe benefits.

The state planning office found that the application for incorporation, handled by Sen. Gerald Lorge of Outagamie County as attorney for the local residents, meets the minimum requirements of the statutes.

They include requirements that a village embrace at least one half square mile of area and a population of 150 persons; and that it has a reasonably defined community center.

The proposal was filed with the state office three months ago, and was one of the last to be handled through the State Department of Resource Development. At the end of the month the state planning division will be attached to the new State Department of Local Affairs and Development.

Opposing Forces Hold in School Site Controversy

Grand Chute Threatens Suit On School Site

Letter States Court Action Is Undesirable

A threat of a lawsuit, requiring the fiscal control board of the Appleton School District to approve the Mielke property for a south side elementary school, was issued this morning in a letter to Mayor George Buckley.

The letter was received this morning from Town of Grand Chute attorney Don Herrling at the direction of Thomas A. Thorson, Grand Chute town chairman.

In the letter Herrling has stated that the request to certify the Mielke property is based on two grounds:

—At both the June 27 and July 5 meetings of the fiscal control board, a quorum was present and a majority of the quorum voted affirmatively on the Mielke site.

Erroneous Computation
—The voting at both meetings was erroneously computed and tabulated because the votes were based on the equalized valuations for 1965, not 1966.

However, Herrling indicated in his letter that he and the Town of Grand Chute would prefer settling the matter without court action.

"A lawsuit concerning this will be costly and of more importance, time consuming," the letter read. The children are the ultimate losers in the litigation for the actual construction of the school must

One-Third Lack Space Now

Fallout Shelter Survey Underway in State

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin five years by the national shelter survey, Knowles said. Most lacks public fallout shelter space to protect one-third of its of these buildings are in Metropolitan areas.

The survey will collect data about more than one million single, double and triple unit dwellings in Wisconsin.

After a computer analysis, each householder will receive a confidential notice of how much protection his residence provides and how he can take advantage of it in the event of a nuclear fallout.

The Bureau of Census has mailed questionnaires to residents of 43 Wisconsin communities, while census takers will interview homemakers and in small towns and rural suburban areas.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles announced plans for a statewide survey to determine fallout protection in each residence.

Knowles said the million dollar federal civil defense project would be conducted by the U.S. Bureau of Census. The Wisconsin survey is part of a series conducted in 20 states in the last year and a half.

Shelter space for more than three million persons in 4,200 large buildings have been provided in the state in the past

"Of 1,066,000 homes in Wisconsin recorded by the 1960 census, an estimated 815,000 have basements which may provide fallout protection," Knowles said.

"Using the Bureau of Census figure of 3.4 persons per average household, therefore, some 2,350,000 residents would have significant fallout protection in their own basements," he said.

A similar mail survey was completed last year in Minnesota, where a record 85 per cent of the questionnaires were returned.

Return Questionnaires
The governor said, "The survey is a vital and integral part of our national defense. I urge each Wisconsin resident to take a few minutes to complete and return the questionnaires."

Cities to which questionnaires are being mailed include: Appleton, Ashland, Beaver Dam, Beloit, Brookfield, Brown Deer, Chippewa Falls, Cudahy, De Pere, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Franklin, Green Bay, Greenfield, Janesville, Kaukauna, Kenosha and La Crosse.

Also, Madison, Manitowish, Marquette, Marshfield, Menasha, Menomonee Falls, Milwaukee, Neenah, New Berlin, Oshkosh, Racine, St. Francis, Sheboygan, Shorewood, South Milwaukee, Stevens Point and Superior.

Also, Two Rivers, Watertown, Waukesha, Wausau, Watonsa, West Allis, Whitefish Bay and Wisconsin Rapids.

May Seek Mediated Settlement

Opposing forces refused to yield an inch this morning during a special meeting called by Mayor George Buckley to try to resolve the Appleton southside school site impasse.

The meeting involved members of the board of education, public school officials, a few aldermen and the city council's land acquisition committee.

After the 90-minute session ended with factions unchanged in their support for either the so-called Mielke or Hoover Park sites, Buckley commented that he was "deeply disturbed" by the results of the meeting.

"When adults cannot reach an agreement on where a new southside school should be located," Buckley said, "it's the children who are the ones who have to suffer."

"It's going to be up to the city council again on Aug. 2," the mayor said, "and I hope this meeting will result in a final determination."

Might Seek Mediation

Buckley said he agrees with a proposal made Monday by City Planner Walter Rasmussen who suggested that if no agreement can be reached by local public officials, the State Department of Public Instruction should be brought in to mediate the issue.

"If it isn't resolved in the very near future," he said, "that's what we'll do."

Most of this morning's discussion was devoted to determining a way in which the Mielke property might come back to the Appleton Council and the fiscal control board of the Appleton school district for reconsideration.

It was finally agreed that another resolution to purchase the Mielke property must come before the council. City Atty. David Geenen said he felt that a two-thirds vote will be necessary to suspend the rules in order for the matter to go to the fiscal board of control.

Changed Minds

Ald. Jack MacDonald (7th), council president, said he feels some aldermen may have changed their minds since the last vote taken by the council.

MacDonald's reasoning was that when the last vote was taken on the Mielke property, Hoover Park was still being considered as a possible school site.

"But now," he said, "the school board has voted down the Hoover Park site so that's no longer under consideration."

Geenen disagreed, saying, "The council has ruled it (the Mielke site) out twice. If you don't want to abide by the council's decision, you can do anything you like."

Not a Shackle

MacDonald said, "parliamentary procedure was not meant to be a shackle; it was meant to be a device to help avoid abuse and disorder, but not to prevent action on items that are worthy of reconsideration."

Geenen said that since the school board has rejected one site and the city council the other, "I would suggest that you start looking for a third site."

However, under the questioning of school board member Ronald Roberts, Geenen admitted that a resolution to purchase the Mielke site can come before the council again.

"Certainly," Geenen said, "you can start all over again." But, he added that there would have to be a suspension of the rules for the matter to reach the floor and that would require a two-thirds vote.

Need New Resolution

After Geenen said there would have to be a new resolution, Ald. James Bethke (9th) said there already was a new resolution. It was introduced at the last council meeting by the four aldermen south of the Fox River. The resolution was scheduled to be up for discussion at this afternoon's meeting of the board of public works.

Much of the discussion during the balance of the morning's meeting was over a disagreement in population projections.

Trailer Camp Zoning Okayed

Neenah Board Votes To Accept County Advice on Grounds

NEENAH — After lengthy consultation with a state health official and considerable debate among themselves, Neenah Town Board members voted to accept a county recommendation rezoning a proposed camp and site for north-bound vacationers.

State approval of water and sewage disposal facilities remain the chief obstacle to carrying out the plans.

Don Carter, enforcement agent for the Fond du Lac regional office of the State Board of Health, promised the campsite developers he would attempt to clarify how a new health code still being written would affect the development.

The land is east of U.S. 41 alongside County Trunk G. Robert G. Ristau, Jr., Donald Fischel and John Murphy, partners in the project, told the board they planned a campsite for tents and camping trailers of the sort lacking their own sanitation equipment.

Carter told them that as the state health code now is written, points continued to react from the news on its first drop in their earnings in a decade. Owens II, travel trailer and mobile home parks lost more than a point. These and other losses depressed the Dow industrial.

On the other hand, savings-and-loan holding companies resumed their rally and there was a considerable showing of strength among selected stocks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 2 at 338 0 with industrials off 8, rails off 1 and utilities up 1.

McDonnell Douglas gained more than 2 points as it paced the list on volume.

Shenley, however, was jolted to a 3-point loss following a statement by Lorillard's chairman that the proposed merger must be resolved no later than Aug. 2 or the merger talks would end.

Lorillard Down
Lorillard fell about 2 points. Pennsylvania Railroad was down about a point as it continued to react to news that its second-quarter earnings were 72 per cent below a year earlier.

Polaroid snapped back about 3 points. Outboard Marine was active and up about 2.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange but the average was higher due to wide gains by selected issues.

Kenosha Boy Killed After Running in Road

Joseph Manhart, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Manhart of Kenosha, died Monday afternoon at a Kenosha hospital of injuries received Sunday night when he was struck by a car near his home as he ran from between two parked vehicles.

The infected trees are located in wide areas of the city with the Island reporting a large number.

The diseased elms, as of the first report from the laboratories, are located at 516, 815 and 1205 E. Forest Ave., 749, 736 and 750 S. Park Ave., two at 408 Walnut St., two at 501 E. The council had voted to employ a Janesville firm to spray the city's elms by helicopter last fall. But public response against the use of DDT delayed the project until the winter weather set in.

The spraying program was delayed for this spring but the work from being done until the April 15 deadline for the DDT set by the state conservation department.

Market Gains Consolidated

Advances Ahead Of Declines, but Some Key Weakness

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market put on another irregular showing early this afternoon as it continued to consolidate recent gains.

Advances outnumbered declines from the start but weakness in some key stocks depressed the averages.

Trading was active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 2 3/8 to 902 1/8.

Eastman Kodak, off about 3 points, continued to react from the news on its first drop in earnings in a decade. Owens II, travel trailer and mobile home parks lost more than a point. These and other losses depressed the Dow industrial.

Junked Auto Ordinance Gets Preliminary Okay

MENASHA — An ordinance which will control junked and abandoned vehicles in the Town of Menasha received preliminary approval by the town board Monday evening but official action was held up pending minor changes in the law.

Putting junked motor vehicles under the "public nuisance" category, the board felt it was time to stop the numerous inoperative cars found on public property.

The original resolution called for a written notice to the property owner where the vehicle is found three days before having it towed away. This would be extended to 10 days, after the April 15 deadline for the board agreed, to allow absentee property owners time to see that the cars were off their lots.

The small number of Negroes on the boards long has been a point of dissatisfaction for civil rights organizations.

He added that it was likely they would need a license from the town board, approval of a water system from the state Department of Resource Development and septic system approval from the health board.

Carter expressed dissatisfaction with the newly adopted Kellett reorganization of state government agencies, which he said resulted in the split of responsibilities in this case between three government bodies — one local the other two at the state level.

Also attending the meeting was Meilhan, Winnebago County zoning officer, who inspected the site before the meeting with Carter, the developers, and Bert Oberlies, town site supervisor.

To Commercial
The county zoning committee had recommended the developers request for re-zoning the land from agricultural to commercial "B" class and the board had until Aug. 8 to act on the recommendation before it automatically took effect. Board members extensively discussed the matter after the others had left, with Oberlies stating that while several questions about the project are not yet answered, the board lacked a solid basis for denying the zoning petition.

Midwestern State Officials Confer On Governments

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — About 150 state and local officials from a dozen midwestern states, including Wisconsin, are attending the four-day Midwest Conference of the Council of State Governments.

The president of the National League of Cities, Mayor Harold M. Tollerison of Tacoma, Wash., said in an opening-day speech Monday that the nation should "avoid the temptation to look for a scapegoat or simple explanation for racial unrest."

Tollerison said it is "not enough to condemn violence. However, it is important that we try to understand the causes and try to do something about them."

Study Begins on Menasha Curfew

MENASHA — City officials plan serious study, including consultation with local judges, before acting on a curfew ordinance similar to the one recently enacted in Neenah.

City Atty. Richard Steffens said this morning a meeting has been scheduled for this evening with Winnebago County Judges James G. Sarres and James V. Sitter, Police Chief Lester Clark and the city attorney.

Steffens stressed that the city would not be seeking to be told how to act, but wanted the "advice and consultation" of two judges as officials who might eventually handle cases arising from enforcement of a curfew.

Suburbia Becomes Target for Criminals

Westchester County, Symbol of Good Life, Overrun by Mafia

By SALLY RYAN
NEW YORK (AP) — The ominous black shadow of organized crime has crept into the grassy suburbia. Federal authorities say the Mafia helps take out the garbage, and they've charged a milkman with picking up policy bets along with empty bottles.

They have arrested Johnny Peanuts and Joseph the Baker. And five men, linked to a Mafia, are accused of running a $1 million-a-year gambling operation out of a gas station.

They have arrested 84 housewives accused of lending their telephones to bookies, and teenagers for using narcotics.

Not in a slum, but in Westchester County, the nation's second wealthiest county, where attorneys and advertising men and Wall Street brokers move when they have a child or two and a raise.

County Executive Edwin G. Michaelian, a former interior decorator, says: "Years ago, there were reports the Mafia was operating in the county. If they are here now, the local police should search them out. We'll give them our support."

Michaelian, a Republican, says the problems spill over from New York. "The Wonderful World of Westchester," he calls his domain. "A privileged community, a symbol of the good life."

Hearing Tests Set for Neenah and Appleton

Free electronic hearing tests will be given in APPLETON Wednesday, July 26th and in NEENAH on Wednesday, August 16th.

Mr. Billingsley

Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Visitors can also see how a simple operation on the ear has helped thousands of people to hear again and how the latest electronic developments are helping thousands more.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

THE CELEBRATED DISTILLED LONDON DRY GIN

Made according to the Original Formula Distilled and Bottled by THE SIR ROBERT BURNETT CO. BALTIMORE, MD.

DISTILLED FROM GRAIN

The "best of both worlds" Gin.

British tradition and American skill make White Satin the best gin you can buy.

You can't beat the British when it comes to formulating a gin. So we didn't try. Instead, we took the secret of Sir Robert Burnett's White Satin, a gin that's been a favorite in London for almost two hundred years.

And then, because you can't beat the Americans at quality production, we produced it here. With the aid of the best equipment and greatest technical knowledge in existence.

By taking the best qualities of each, we came up with a gin that's better than either. Which is kind of like having your cake and eating it too.

When Child's Eye Turns Out, Trouble Is Near

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My problem is with my 3-year old daughter. One of her eyes turns out when she stares, or even looks directly at me. My husband says it isn't anything to be concerned about, but it worries me.

Dr. Molner

I have a son, 13, almost sightless in his right eye but with 30-20 vision in the other. Do I have reason to be concerned? — Mrs. N.C.

Yes, you decidedly do have reason to be concerned. Your daughter apparently has a defect in the muscles, or muscle balance, of the eyes.

One of the serious results of this type of defect is that when the eyes do not focus correctly, a person will see a double image. Nature rebels at the confusion. Gradually the person begins to use one eye and not the other — and eventually much or all of the sight of the unused eye is lost.

Therefore the defect should be corrected as early as possible. Surgery may be required, but this is not a serious procedure. The decision, naturally, should be in the hands of a specialist.

Some weeks ago I answered a somewhat similar question, although by no stretch of the imagination as urgent as this one today. It involved a mother who was told by others that her child's eye turned in. The mother herself could not detect it. I felt it might be well to wait to see whether there was really a defect.

Several physicians specializing in ophthalmology urged that I reconsider the answer. Imbalance, they told me, can at times appear to be very slight yet still cause loss of the use of an eye. That is if you are inside looking out — if you are the child with the muscle balance defect — even a rather small error in focussing the eyes can cause a blurring or cause double vision and the tendency to begin using only one eye.

Therefore I withdraw that earlier answer and suggest that any child be examined if there is any indication that one eye does not coordinate with the other, regardless of whether the eye turns inward, outward, or in any other direction.

This does not apply, of course, to infants whose eyes do not track well at birth. It takes a bit of time for the baby to learn to use both eyes to look at something.

If after these early months, the eyes do not focus properly, then have the child examined. If treatment is necessary, the sooner the better.

Dear Dr. Molner: Several years ago some of my books were borrowed and returned by a friend who had tuberculosis. Since then I have been afraid to use them so they just sit on the shelf.

I see no danger whatsoever. Care should be taken with some articles at the time of return — washing, sunning or otherwise making sure that no live bacteria remain. In the case of these books, any germs have long been dead. Wrapping in manila paper for several weeks is a well-accepted procedure.

Dear Dr. Molner: How can one purify water when traveling abroad? — D.F.

In many areas there is no need, but if you get off the beaten track, or into areas where you aren't sure of the safety of water, you can carry chlorine tablets. These are available at any drug store, and come with complete instructions for use. They do much the same job that chlorination of our city water supplies does.

To learn of new treatment for this cruel and painful disease, write for Dr. Molner's booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way To Stop It." To receive a copy, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader-mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Pravda Accuses U. S. Reactionaries of Pressuring Negroes

MOSCOW (AP) — A Pravda commentator wrote Monday that the recent racial trouble in Newark, N.J., was partly a result of the Vietnam war.

In a weekly review in the Soviet Communist Party newspaper, Vitaly Tushnev wrote that demonstrations against escalation of the Vietnam war forced "American reactionaries" to "tighten the screws."

"It is precisely in these circumstances," he said, "that police committed their outrages against the Negro population of Newark, a city not far from New York, where 24 Negroes were killed, over 2,000 wounded and hundreds of persons arrested."

"This cruel outrage committed with the participation of tanks and armored troop carriers was not only a manifestation of racialism inherent in the exploiting system existing in the United States but also was a reflection of the tense situation in the country due to the war in Vietnam."

Jacobson, who was charged following investigation by Appleton detectives, stole the copper from the J. Golper Co., 425 S. Bounds St., then sold it back to the firm. The offense occurred July 10. Jacobson had pleaded innocent and trial was to have been today in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Johnson Sends Troops To Detroit 'With Regret'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson pleaded to law-abiding citizens across the nation to help put down rioting and lawlessness after he sent federal troops into riot-ripped Detroit "with the greatest regret."

In a brief television broadcast ending after midnight, Johnson announced his decision to heed Michigan Gov. George Romney's request for federal forces. From Capitol Hill came political bickering and speculation in the wake of riot developments.

"I am sure the American people will realize," said the grim-faced, bespectacled President, "that I take this action with the greatest regret—and only because of the clear, unmistakable and undisputed evidence that Gov. Romney and the local officials have been unable to bring the situation under control."

"Determined Program"
Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark stood just behind the President as he called on "all of our people, in all of our cities, to join in a determined program to maintain law and order" and to show "that riots, looting and public disorder will not be tolerated."

Johnson's order and his appeal to a nationwide television audience came hours after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield put administration weight behind a Senate Republican move to probe rioting in U. S. cities.

But Mansfield struck back at Republican Policy Coordinating Committee charges that the United States is "rapidly approaching a state of anarchy."

and that Johnson is failing to recognize and deal with racial violence.

The GOP committee, which includes congressional leaders, governors and former presidential candidates, suggested violence and destruction in Detroit may be the outgrowth of "organized planning and execution on a national scale."

Ike Included
Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was among members who voted unanimously for the statement. It demanded a congressional investigation of means to end civil disorders.

Mansfield said in an interview he thinks a resolution offered Monday by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., to set up a Senate inquiry committee "can do some good." He said he will ask the Senate Rules Committee to act on it quickly.

There was speculation about the possible political effects of Romney's request for federal troops—and it seemed likely to burgeon in the wake of the President's television statement.

In his brief message, Johnson mentioned seven times that Romney had initiated the action by requesting the troops. The President stressed the federal government had to respond "since it was called upon by the governor of the state and presented with proof of his inability to restore order."

Long before Johnson spoke, Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said he was "unpleasantly surprised" that Romney asked for troops. Russell said National Guardsmen should have been able to quell the uprising.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said the situation was filled with "political nuances." Morse said Johnson responded to the appeal with "statesmanship and courage."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who has indicated he would like second place on a Romney presidential ticket, said there were "enormous numbers of people involved" and the governor for the southside area. Rasmusen made several references to the controversy," he said, "especially when all of us agree there has to be a new school."

"As a member of the city council, one of the criteria I see is: 'What do the aldermen in the affected wards think?' I think all four aldermen are in touch with their constituents and represent the views of their constituents. The entire issue is becoming suspicious to the public and they're beginning to wonder what's happening."

Mac Donald agreed, saying both sides have become angry and adamant. "I hope we can get back to making constructive judgments," he added.

When the meeting ended, the next step was for the board of public works to reconsider the new Mielke property purchase resolution. The board's report will come to the council at its Aug. 2 meeting. If the council allows the matter to come to the floor, the fiscal control board will vote once more on resolution to purchase the Mielke property.

Bethke said that if Rasmusen's references to the comprehensive plan are true, "we'll need three new schools on the southside within the foreseeable future."

But, Bethke added, "right now there's a need for a new school, and if it isn't to be on the Mielke property, then it will have to be darned close to it." Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) chastised the city officials who have failed to resolve the issue.

He used his best judgment in the situation."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., endorsed Johnson's action in sending troops to Michigan and said "criminal conduct was rampant and the application of law there was essential." Sen. Robert P. Griffin, D-Mich., said the troops should have been moved into Detroit earlier.

But former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said in Whittier, Calif., that participation of federal troops was "not a healthy thing."

Gov. John Love of Colorado, head of the GOP Governors Association, said he didn't think the action would hurt Romney politically because other governors have had to cope with similar riots.

The other factor is the governor's budget which calls for no increase in taxes on the state level. This has curtailed any increase in state aids, thus the burden of increased enrollment has been tossed into the laps of local tax payers.

Receipts as presented in the budget show a balance brought forward in the amount of $23,246; county aids were set at $19,250, up $1,400 over the actual received in 1966-67; state aids, $211,500, down $77,172; transportation, $12,000, up $712; text book rental, $7,000, up $534; tuition, $16,000, down $3,149; federal aids, $10,000, up $5,136; utility taxes, $29,000, up $1,565; miscellaneous, $3,800, down $2,167; property rent, $1,700, down $43, and a tax levy of $1,552,827, up $264,101.

be delayed until the site is finally determined."

The question, the letter stated, should be finally resolved by the legislative process of the fiscal control board operating under proper parliamentary rules with the voting computed upon a proper basis, not in the courts.

Threat Since July 19

The threat of a lawsuit over the site question has hung over the matter since July 19, when the request for reconsideration of the Mielke property on the council floor was denied. City Atty David Geenen ruled that the council "could not reconsider something that has already been reconsidered," without suspension of the rules. The two-thirds majority needed for the suspension was not received.

After reading the letter this morning, Appleton City Atty David Geenen said his opinion has not changed since the last meeting of the Appleton Council. "If they vote on the basis of their own valuation," Geenen said, "then they should pay taxes on that basis also. They would have to pay us over $200,000 in new taxes and we could use it."

list of project approvals issued by the state Conservation Department.

The money involved represents the sums that otherwise would be used for wild animal predator bounties, which the Conservation Department regards as of doubtful value. Some counties continue to use their share of the state funds to finance such bounties, but an increasing number of them are turning to alternative projects they regard as more productive.

Among the recent projects are:

Here We Go:

The acquisition of perpetual easements for public access on a scenic creek, the acquisition and renovation of a spring pond, and the installation of fishing shutes on heavily used streams, in Grant County.

The repair of an old lock chamber in a dam for the convenience of fishermen and boaters, in Green County.

Stream and bank improvement on the Rush River, in Pierce County.

Improvement of water circulation and fish spawning in a marsh area, in Polk County.

The construction and placement of fish cribs in popular local lakes, in Taylor County.

The development of nature trails in county parks and the creation of a wildlife sanctuary, in Calumet County.

The improvement of a rifle range, and pot hole blasting and food plots for the encouragement of ducks, in Oconto County.

Construction of a by-pass for water level control at a county park, in Sheboygan County.

Purchase of a hunter safety and training area, in Walworth County.

Changes Should be Reported To Social Security Office

Frank M. Donnick, manager of the Appleton District Social Security office, today reminded all persons who receive social security benefits that they must notify the Social Security Administration immediately of any event that would cause his benefit to stop or change. Some events affect one benefit but not another.

The events that must be reported for all beneficiaries are changes of address, leaving the United States, death, and the earning of more than $1,500 in a year if the person is under 72 years of age for any part of the year.

Donnick said the remaining events must be reported for certain types of beneficiaries. Divorces must be reported by persons receiving wife's or husband's benefits. Marriages must be reported by persons receiving child's, widow's, or parent's benefits. Adoptions must also be reported. Changing the custody of a child must be reported. Returning to employment by a person receiving disability benefits or recovery from his impairment must also be reported.

Mental or physical illness may occur that would prevent a person from being able to continue handling his own checks. This event must be reported so that someone else can be selected to receive the benefit for him.

Management Changes Made At Thilmany

William Seymour New Covering Production Head

KAUKAUNA -- Several changes in the manufacturing division of Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., which became effective July 1, have been announced.

Company officials have reported that William Seymour is now manager of the covering production and services with increased responsibilities including material handling, garage and stores.

R. E. Strauss will work under Seymour as production service manager. In making the announcement, Fred Herbolzheimer Jr., vice president of manufacturing, said Seymour and Strauss would be able to work closely between the new warehouse and production facilities.

At the same time R.E. Driesen assumed the newly-created post of technical assistant to the manufacturing vice president.

D. W. Brown occupies the new position of administrative assistant to Herbolzheimer. "This will enable Don (Brown) to work closely with me and others of the management team on projects that are becoming more complex as our growth pattern develops," Herbolzheimer said.

Michael T. Aspan has become supervisor of industrial engineering. He is responsible to Brown and will direct the industrial engineering department. The vice president said this will assure continuation of the engineering effort and will allow Brown more time to carry out his new responsibilities.

Primary Bill Signed Making Wisconsin Vital to Presidency

All Recognized Candidates Will be on Wisconsin Ballot

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin has been the only state in the nation with an all-inclusive race in previous years.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles signed into law at midnight the expanded presidential primary bill requiring all recognized candidates to be listed on the Wisconsin ballot, beginning next year.

Political leaders indicated this is the way the ballot could look in 1968:

Republicans	Democrats
Richard M. Nixon	yes, ()
Ronald Reagan	no, ()
Nelson A. Rockefeller	yes, ()
George W. Romney	no, ()
None of the names shown	yes, ()
Write-in candidate	no, ()
Lyndon B. Johnson	yes, ()
Write-in candidate	no, ()

The new law creates an 11-man selection committee to place all recognized national contenders for president on the Wisconsin ballot unless a person chosen swears under oath he is not a candidate for the White House.

If only one candidate is listed, as may be the case in the Democratic primary next year, the voter is offered a blunt "yes" or "no" choice.

Tax Reduction Favored by Some Amid Push for 6 Per Cent Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the Johnson administration decries a tax increase proposal, some influential congressional taxwriters contend the wisest long-run economic course would be a tax cut.

They argue the basic direction of the economy is more important than short-range periods of inflation or high deficit, and that a tax hike might have serious dampening effects.

President Johnson said in January he would ask Congress to enact a 6 per cent surtax on individual and corporate income taxes. He said last week that congressional action along those lines is necessary.

But no presidential message on taxes has been sent yet to the Capitol Hill, and Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee has declined public comment on whether he would support an increase.

Without Mills' support, any tax increase proposal would face a difficult fight.

Major arguments for the tax hike are that the federal deficit, which stood at $9.9 billion for the fiscal year ended June 30, might swell past the $20 billion mark this year, and that with DeGaulle's "anything to the detriment of Canadian unity, I am not with him."

Small Crowd
Caouette added that with all the fuss made over De Gaulle's visit by the Quebec government of Premier Daniel Johnson, "there should have been 300,000 people out" to see the French president in Montreal. Instead the crowd in Montreal was estimated at between 3,000 and 10,000.

T. C. Douglas, head of the New Democratic Party, expressed doubt that De Gaulle's scheduled visit to Ottawa would be canceled because of the uproar over his speech.

De Gaulle's schedule today included a visit to Expo 67 where France Day was being observed.

Monday, the second day of his five-day Canadian visit, De Gaulle made seven stops in rural towns and hamlets during a motor tour from Quebec City to Montreal.

Own Master
"French Canada is a country which wants to be its own master," he told crowds along the 168-mile route.

In his speech to the chanting crowd in front of Montreal's City Hall, he said "I will tell you a secret I have the same feeling now as I had during the liberation of France."

Fronting the crowd were members of the extremist Union for National Independence. They carried placards saying "Quebec, oui. Ottawa, non."

"Support the struggle for national liberation," and "Quebec is a French country."

Soon after De Gaulle spoke telegrams from across the country poured into Ottawa for Pearson. Radio stations in the capital were inundated with calls demanding that the French president be censured.

First Joint Strike

Air, Naval Forces Combine To Blast Vinh Power Plant

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes and bombarding naval vessels delivered a coordinated knockout blow to the big power plant just outside the major North Vietnamese city of Vinh, the U.S. Command said today.

It was the first combined Air-Navy strike at a major North Vietnamese target.

A rash of terrorist incidents were reported in South Vietnam, including Communist efforts to stop traffic on the major Mekong Delta highway and a guerrilla raid on a small hamlet where five men and a woman were shot down as "police spies."

While no major ground battles were reported, there were sharp fights up and down South Vietnam, with 49 Viet Cong killed in one series of running fights in the northernmost 1st Corps area where most recent ground fighting has centered.

Shore Batteries

The Vinh power plant was attacked Monday. The heavy cruiser St. Paul steamed close inshore and opened up with her 8-inch guns while two destroyers darted even closer to shell Red shore batteries.

After an hour-long bombardment, waves of jets from the carrier Constellation swept over the plant, unloading 500- and 700-pound bombs.

It was the second consecutive day that planes had hit the Ben Thuy plant two miles southeast of Vinh and about seven miles inland from the Tonkin Gulf. The plant, originally rated at about 8,000 kilowatts, had been bombed out of operation a year ago but the North Vietnamese restored some of its capacity.

Damage Unestimated

After the two-day pounding, the plant again is presumably out of operation, the U.S. Command said, but precise damage assessment was impossible because of the clouds of smoke, flame and dust raised by the bombardment and bombing.

The air strikes were among 144 missions flown against North Vietnam Monday by Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots.

U.S. headquarters reported all strikes were against supply routes and facilities in the lower half of the country because clouds blanketed the area from Hanoi to the Chinese border.

South Vietnamese and American authorities reported about a dozen acts of terrorism ranging from assassinations to the bombing of a hamlet school which luckily was unoccupied.

In the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, guerrillas mined main Highway 4 for the eighth time in five days and again held up traffic temporarily.

A key factor on the kind of tax action necessary is the state of the economy, and this is most in dispute. The administration contends the economic water is heating up after the pause of the first six months, but the evidence is not conclusive.

Another problem with raising taxes is that any increase would probably take effect Jan. 1 when the fiscal year is half over. Thus its impact on the current budget might be less than originally anticipated.

The greatest danger of a tax increase is that it could slow the nation's economic growth and reduce the tax base so that additional revenues are virtually nil.

William E. Downes Jr., city aviation commissioner, made the suggestion after a study was launched Monday into the problem of airport congestion.

The study was prompted by the collision last week of a small plane and a commercial airliner over North Carolina which killed 82 persons.

O'Hare, Downes said, averages about 1,500 commercial and 600 small craft flight operations daily.

O'Hare May Limit Small Craft Traffic
CHICAGO (AP) — O'Hare International Airport, one of the world's busiest, may bar small planes during its most congested periods.

Action a Mystery

Abnormal Jet Streams Make for Cool Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It has been a comparatively cool and wet summer over much of the nation thus far, all because of those fickle jet streams, the weather experts say.

Despite some occasional hot and steamy days, more wet and relatively cool weather is anticipated at least through mid-August.

Why the jet streams act as they do is almost as much of a mystery to the Weather Bureau as it is to the man in the street buttoning up his raincoat against a late afternoon thundershower.

"They're never normal," one official says in describing them as a major study area. "We don't know the full answers."

The experts now are working on the theory the jet streams—the upper air wind patterns above 10,000 feet—are affected in some way by ocean water temperatures as well as ground temperatures. In turn, it is believed, they have some effect on surface temperatures.

Weather researchers believe feedback is involved and note that if the jet streams make it rain, it is likely to keep raining.

One flows from Alaska and northwest Canada over the Great Lakes region and then toward the Northeast. Its lower limit is generally near the Chicago-northern Indiana area more southerly than normal.

In the South another jet stream dances in from the Gulf of Mexico, and turns in through the Southwest and Texas before heading east from about Kansas.

In between, there is what the experts call a conference where storms are generated over a wide area.

Ed McMahon Discusses 'Real' Johnny Carson

Late Night Host Is Man of All Seasons, Man of All Interests and of All Hobbies

By ED MCMAHON
For Cynthia Lowry

Ed McMahon's star has been hitched to Johnny Carson's wagon for the past 10 years—as announcer and often straight man for the comedian. Ed also is host on NBC's new day-time game show, "Snap Judgment." Here he writes, with considerable awe, about Johnny's activities.

NEW YORK (AP) — People always ask that question: What is Johnny Carson like?

Here goes. There has to be something a little nutt—about a guy who wants to free fall from an airplane holding the title cards for the "Tonight Show" with a movie photographer free-falling beside him.

He has hand-fed ice cream to a 300-pound jaguar. He has done a Twiggly imitation with a wrap-around boa. Only this boa was a boa constrictor, still living, and looking hungry to me. He even allowed an American bald eagle to perch on his shoulder.

He learned bravery early, at the age of 16, when he was doing a magic act as The Great Carsoni. Rumor says the act was done from the back of a moving truck.

He can still do magic. On the "Tonight Show" he recreated his old magic act and did a splendid job. He's a ventriloquist and handles cards like a Mississippi gambler. To this day he sits around his office, rolling quarters over his fingers.

He handles bow and arrow like a sharpshooter. He can Stage Flying. He has played football with the Jets—he suited up and commingled with them. He pitched once to the leadoff man of the New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium.

He scuba-dived off Freeport, Grand Bahama. He did some stage flying in a Peter Pan rig. He did a hand-over-hand peg climb some 20 feet up a wall.

St. John Class Meets for 20-Year Reunion

A Hawaiian theme, with the greeting 'Aloha', was carried out as members of the St. John High School, Little Chute, class of 1947 met for a reunion Saturday evening. The 20-year observance of their class graduation took place at Knights of Columbus Hall, Kaukauna.

The program began with a 6 p.m. cocktail hour and included dinner, a program, and dancing. Every class member was contacted by the reunion committee.

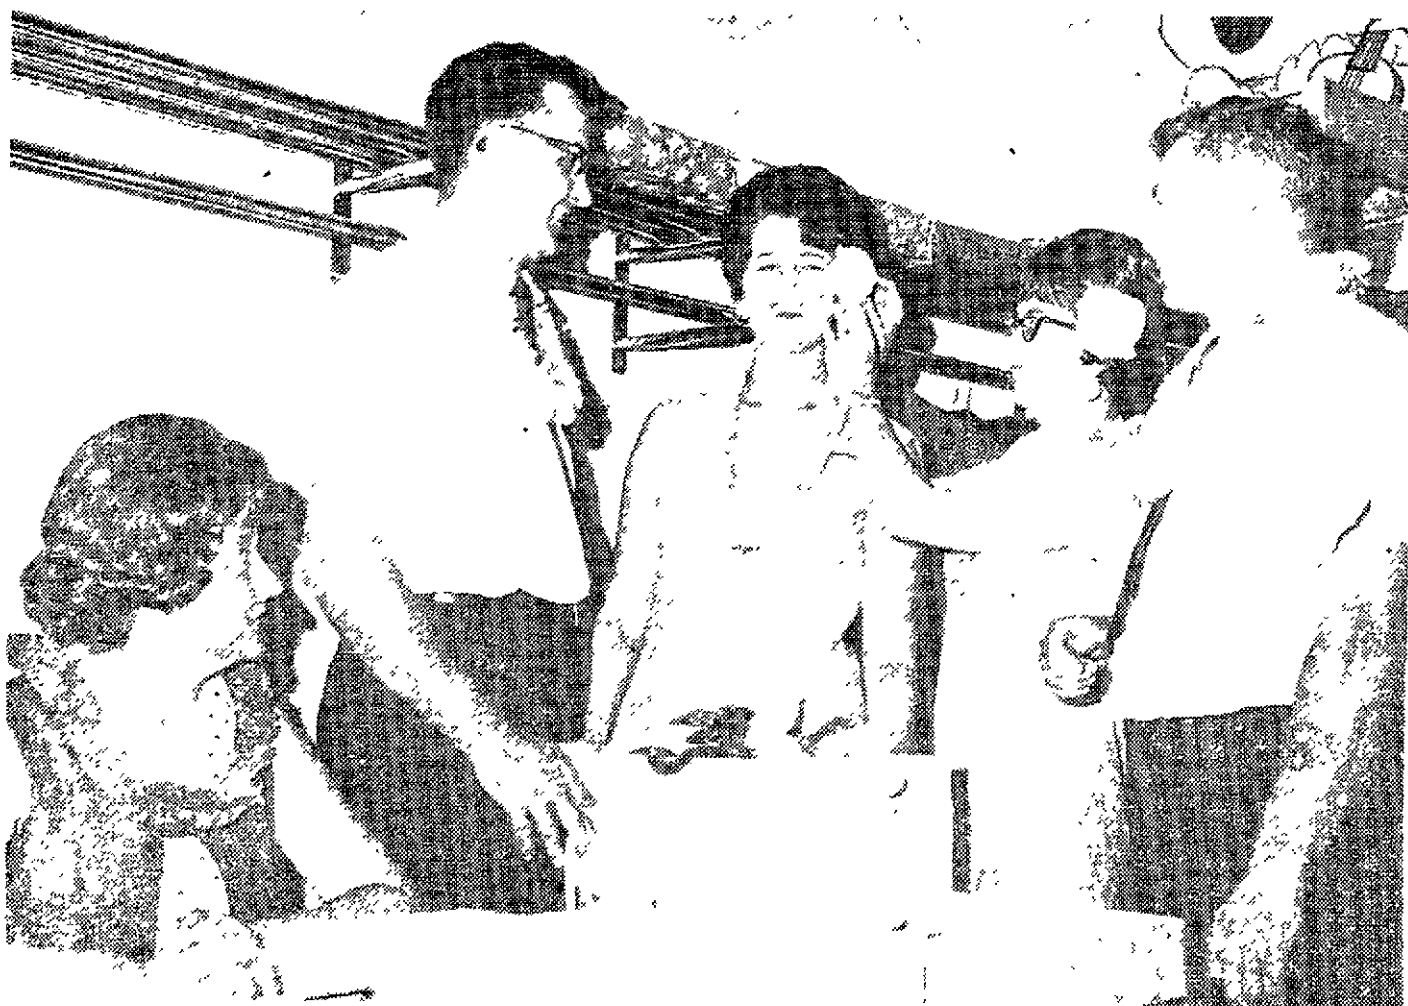

Arranging the event were Mrs. Richard Schuh, Mrs. Greg Hanegraaf, Mrs. Patrick Blohm, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Van Eperen, Eugene Dercks, Mark Dercks and Richard Van Gompel.

Palm Trees 'Grown' specifically for the St. John 20-year reunion set a tropic mood for the summer events Saturday evening. Chatting at the party, held at Knights of Columbus Hall, Kaukauna, are Mr. and Mrs. James

Van Camp, St. Louis, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Semenczuk, Vicksburg, Mich. Mr. Semenczuk is a former athletic director and coach at the school. (Post-Crescent Photos)

There Were Letters from class members who couldn't attend the reunion, pictures of class members as they were during their high school years and newspaper clippings to remind the class of major school events. Looking at the board above are Mr. and Mrs. Roger DeGroot, St. Louis, Mo. At left, leis and flowers were distributed to arriving class members. Mrs. Richard Schuh, left registered class members Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Gompel and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dercks, all of Little Chute.

Travelers Without Toothpaste

Errant Suitcase Goes Overseas

"I was disappointed I didn't go to Germany with my suitcase," comments Mrs. Si O'Connell, 2308 N. Oneida St., discussing her recent trip to New York City and Canada. She and her husband spent 10 days sightseeing in the 'Fun City' Montreal and Quebec with a YMCA tour while some of their luggage crossed the Atlantic Ocean.

"We had a larger suitcase with us," explains the Appleton woman, "but another grip containing cosmetics, jewelry and my husband's clothes was lost when we arrived in New York City. I had dresses to wear but no pajamas, toothbrushes, hair spray, underwear or any of the little things we needed."

Begins Search

The 17 members on the Y tour stayed in New York two days before departing for Quebec. Tour director Vern Dietel searched for the lost luggage at Kennedy airport, but his attempts and those of the airline were unsuccessful.

"Everything was so confusing," laughs Mrs. O'Connell. "Mr. Dietel kept going to the airport to check on the wandering suitcase. After two days he found out that a woman from Milwaukee who was enroute to Germany had grabbed the wrong suitcase at Kennedy Airport. I had mine marked with a red tag so I could spot it easily but she must not have looked at it closely enough. Anyway, the suitcase was in Luxemburg and we were in New York."

Replace Items

As the days passed, Mrs. O'Connell and her husband began to realize they would have to replace some items they had carefully packed in the suitcase before it began a prodigious journey to Europe.

"It was a problem," she said. "We didn't want to buy everything we needed because we figured the suitcase would be returned soon. And yet, we couldn't go without items like toothpaste and hand cream or our clothes. When we were in New York we were sightseeing and going to Broadway plays so we didn't have time to shop. By the time we arrived in Montreal we had to go out and purchase supplies. It was so confusing. It's a good thing our fellow travelers kept ribbing us about the incident so we didn't lose our sense of humor. At first the situation was funny but it became irritating as time went on."

Retrieve Suitcase

The O'Connells and their suitcase finally met the day before the tour left Canada for New York and the return flight. The 'reunion' was as confusing as the separation had been, according to Clarence Theis, 116 E. Fourth St., Kaukauna, who was sleuthing the case of the missing luggage with Mr. Dietel.

"After two days of checking, the airline located the suitcase in Luxemburg," he recalls. "However, we were in Quebec when the discovery was made. The bag was flown from Germany to Montreal. We just didn't seem to time it right. When the suitcase arrived in Montreal, it was put on a train to Quebec. Believe it or not, the suitcase arrived in Quebec after our tour group had departed for Montreal. When the suitcase reached Quebec it was put on another train returning to Montreal where we were. Mr. Dietel kept calling airports and checking train stations to find it. It was really something," he explains.

When Mr. Dietel went to retrieve the suitcase at the Montreal train station he was given a $15 express charge for shipping costs. "I have a little bill now," laughs Mrs. O'Connell.

Fly Home

The O'Connells, their suitcase and the tour took a bus from Montreal to New York the next day. They flew back to Milwaukee July 17 and returned to Appleton by bus. "We really had a wonderful time," says Mrs. O'Connell.

"Sometimes an incident like this is enough to mar the whole trip but it didn't. It was fun. My suitcase arrived from Germany unharmed but between New York and Milwaukee it received some scratches and dents. It was all so strange."

Several years ago Mrs. O'Connell had a similar experience with lost luggage.

I flew to Los Angeles and when I went to claim a small duffel bag I discovered it was on its way to San Francisco. Fortunately it was flown back to Los Angeles on a different plane so it didn't cause too much inconvenience. These things always seem to happen to me," she says wryly. "My husband didn't say too much about our recent experience. If he needed something that was in the other suitcase he only shook his head and said he didn't understand how it happened. I don't either."

Mr. and Mrs. Si O'Connell look at their errant suitcase which was lost on a recent trip to New York City and Canada. The suitcase went to Germany when the couple landed in New York. The O'Connells caught up with their luggage a week later in Montreal. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Esterel Drops Hemlines; Puts Capes in Silhouette

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — One can always count on Esterel to put on an eye-grabbing show. He opened the Paris winter fashion season today by dropping the hemline to calf length and never higher than four inches below the knee.

And he came up with a new, capped silhouette.

Capes step forth in every length, and always top straight funnel-shaped culottes, styled like calf-length gaucho trousers styles them in moods. They vary from the chic black and or bloomed cycling pants, all stopping at midcalf and brushing the top of high black vinyl or the new guinza stretch fabric topped boots. Spanish toreador hats or almond-shaped beanies are invariably worn with a tight hood, black or white, adding to the drama.

Sight-Seeing Photographers 'Bug' Non-Camera Carrier

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I travel extensively, usually with a group. I am a freak in any crowd of travelers because I do not carry a camera.
I am sick to death of fellow four members who feel that just because they are taking pictures they are entitled to top priority on every view.
When I am seated next to a window on a plane, or a train or a bus, someone always taps me on the shoulder and says, "Would you mind changing seats with me? I'd like to take some pictures." Too many times, when I have been enjoying some soul-stirring sight, an anxious voice pipes up. "Please move over a little. I'd like a snapshot of this."

On my last trip I incurred the animosity of a rather nice person because it seems on two separate occasions I stepped in front of him when he was taking pictures. He behaved as if the Black Hills had been put there for the benefit of his photo album.

I like pictures of places where I have been, too, so I buy postcards. They are much better than anything an amateur could produce. Please print this letter and sign me — President Of The Society For The Prevention Of Cruelty To People Who Travel Without Cameras
Dear President: Here's your letter, but don't expect it to do any good. Shutterbugs are as much a part of America as hot dogs and the U.S. marines. And you can count on the tribe of picture takers increasing by leaps and bounds because that's what is happening to the travel industry. Lots of luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Does anybody look at your stuff before it gets into the paper or do you have the right to print anything you want to?
Our two daughters will be teen-agers soon and I have a terrible time keeping some of your columns away from them. You make me nervous when you get into personal topics like unwed mothers and V.D. Once you printed something about "an eight-handed idiot" and our 11-year-old wanted to know what you meant. I didn't know what to say.
It's very difficult to raise wholesome girls these days with sex being thrown at them left and right. If you don't stop printing trashy letters from girls who get pregnant in high school I am going to cancel my subscription to the paper. — Against Dirt
Dear Against: I hope your daughters get enough information from this column to keep them out of trouble before you cancel the subscription of this paper. With a mother like you, it won't be easy.
Parents who think if they ignore sex their children will never discover it are in for a shock.
This column is a faithful reflection of life. It is real and sometimes not very pretty. But it contains information that is correct and valid and I believe it is fit fare for anyone who is old enough to read.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1967)

Proper Foot Care Takes Pain From Fair-Walking

Sizzling pavement, spiraling staircases and ramps, shuffling lines of persons queued up outside exhibits — all add up to foot misery for the inexperienced sightseer visiting a fair.
But whether visiting a county fair or an exposition of the awesome dimensions of Canada's Expo 67, it is possible to avoid sore feet by observing a few commonsense rules for walking.
Prepare for your visit to the fair by walking a little more than usual at home each day. Strolling about the neighborhood is one good way to "tune up" your feet.
If you have any reason to doubt that your feet are in good shape arrange for a checkup at blisters.

Care, Planning Ease Vacation Clothes Packing

Most travelers pack far too many clothes for their summer vacation.
Try to visualize every costume completely as you plan, suggests Ruth Diez, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin. If you coordinate colors and combine outfits and styles, you will need to take fewer clothes.
Consider where you will be going and what you will be doing when you plan your travel wardrobe. For example, if you plan to go to the theatre, you will need a dressier outfit than you need for daytime sightseeing.
Consider Climate
Consider the climate, too. A heavy sweater which may be a necessity in one area, might not be needed for another part of the country.
It's wise to take a few basic outfits that can be dressed up with smart accessories for evening wear. For example, dress-skimmer that's simple and es with jackets or a lightweight streamlined. You'll like the suit will go almost anywhere curved collar, bold pocket and the jacket adds extra warmth that is often needed at night.
Don't take brand-new shoes on a vacation. Break new shoes in before the vacation to be sure that they are comfortable.
Also, take clothes that are wrinkle-free rather than worry about taking an iron. Irons add extra weight.
Knits are easy-care fabrics that resist wrinkles. Take all kinds — wool knits for cooler climates, textured polyester knits for warmer climates and blends of synthetic and natural fibers are also good to take pattern free — just clip coupon because they show fewer wrinkles. Prints and tweeds show few wrinkles, too.

Sandwich 'Specially Super in Summer

Sandwiches are a popular home, wrap them in foil or sortment of breads and rolls - year-around food, but the summer months, with picnics, parties and fun-filled days, make the sandwich the most appreciated of inventions.

'Keep perishable food cold' is the cardinal rule for a picnic. To insure the best sandwich- fillings and mayonnaise cold until eating time. For picnics, pack well-chilled sausage, sandwich filling and crisp vegetables in an ice chest or insulated bag. Along with cans of frozen cool- ing mixture or ice cubes in a double plastic bag. Butter the breads or buns at serving time. Assemble as wick spreads available at your clear plastic, and tote them to the picnic in the basket along with the condiments. At serving time, arrange all food on the table, buffet style and let every one make his own.

Freeze sandwiches when only a few simple ones are to be carried to the picnic. Carry the cold cuts. Add green onions sliced and cucumber slices, tomato slices in a small green pepper rings and sliced stuffed onions.

Another tasty sandwich combination consists of liver sausage, Bermuda onion and tomato slices on rye bread. Cover the tray and refrigerate it until variety of cold cuts and sandwich breads or buns at serving time. Assemble as wick spreads available at your meat counter. There's a ready-to-serve meat for every taste - bologna, thuringer, mortadella, chopped ham, salami, pepperoni and summer sausage, as well as a wide variety of meat loaves. Choose several to give sandwiches variety.

Cool Reducing

A spot-reducing routine is seldom as arduous as rumored. The legline trimmers and firmers below actually can be done in bed. How's that for the height of reducing comfort?

Here's the procedure: 1. Stretch out flat, back down, with arms at sides. 2. Raise both legs, perpendicular to ceiling. Fling legs wide apart -- as far as possible; hold position for five slow counts. Very slowly bring legs together and, without pause, repeat 10 times. 3. Lower legs to rest on bed and again fling them apart, so that calves just skim bedding; quickly bring legs together. Repeat 10 times being sure legs whisk across bed, not drag across.

4. Place sole of right foot against side of left thigh. Quickly swing right leg out to right; immediately return foot to thigh. During swing hold leg two inches off bed. Ten fast repeats, each leg.

5. With legs together and stretched downward on bed, quickly point toes upward toward body, then slowly downward. Repeat 20 times, working for maximum pull in calf and ankle muscles.

You cannot know until you try how easy and effective the routine is. With minimum effort it improves the contour of the entire legline in time. By fall fashion time, let's say, when most skirts will not be longer. (Copyright 1967)

Appleton Servicemen's Wives have started to work on the project of making ditty bags for servicemen overseas. Members of the club brought materials and their sewing machines to the Thursday evening meeting at

Adds Flourishes And Pleases Family

Pitted Bing cherries, shelled almonds and cherry flavored gelatin combine to make a delicious, crunchy molded salad.

At cocktail time, insert small frankfurters in a head of cabbage and serve the franks with a tangy sauce. To prepare the cabbage, choose a dark green head, rinse thoroughly and dry. Trim base so head will stand steady. Curl loose outer leaves down and away from the head.

Delicious compote for summertime: sliced fresh peaches combined with sliced ripe bananas and balls of cantaloupe.

wonderful things going for them — their youth and good looks," Dr. St. Mary commented, but teens should not believe a vitamin-a-day keeps the doctor away.

Vitamins, which are beneficial when prescribed by doctors, have fallen into the quackery field, too, the panel said. Part of the blame lies with mothers who stuff their children with vitamin pills thinking they will be healthy no matter what their eating habits.

Nothing, the panel agreed, takes the place of exercise, sufficient sleep and a well-balanced diet.

Girls Gullible

"Girls suffer more than boys from quackery," Mrs. Rose said. "Boys eat such volume they have the right amount of nutrients. Girls, with smaller appetites, usually cut down on what they should have."

The panel suggested education and a fight against excessive advertising as the main hopes in stamping out quackery.

Teen Insecurity Aids Sale of Quack Products

MIAMI (AP) — What teenager would use a concoction of dog toes, date refuse and asses' hoofs to restore hair?

Today's teens, unlike the balding Queen Ses who ruled Egypt about 3400 B.C., won't fall for such obvious quackery.

But offer them a way to eliminate pimples, brighten teeth, build muscles, enlarge busts, get quick energy or add an inch to stature and the modern quack has himself a pigeon.

Although generally quackery is associated with the old, the sick and the uninformed, teens and their $40 billion market are also target of the quack artist out to make a buck off someone else's fears and anxieties, says a panel of health-conscious adults.

"Teen-agers have their own set of frustrations," said Dr. Daniel L. Secklinger Jr., representing the Dade County Medical Association. "The old, the rheumatism victims, the cancer patients look for cures. The teen-ager is just as concerned about acne and health fads. And teen-agers are very susceptible to somebody's way-out."

All Ages

Dr. Edward St. Mary, chairman of the Medical Association's quackery committee, agreed that while motives vary, both the young and the old fall for quackery claims.

"Older people do in hopes of survival. Younger people do because of competitiveness in their own groups," he said.

Teens, conditioned look forward false images of the 6 foot man (the average American male is 5-7) and 38-inch bust women, worry if they don't match the images. Dr. Secklinger said.

Teen Image

The teen-age boy is offered hormones, stretching devices, special shoes, vitamins, food supplements to make them taller. Girls spend their allowances on massaging devices, estrogen creams and special bras to become more glamorous.

"They ought, instead, to wait and see what is going to happen naturally before they do anything," suggested Ruth Rose, a medical dietitian.

Both boys and girls are targets of cosmetics, deodorants, cereals, quickie breakfasts, toothpastes which promise directly or by innuendo to cure all adolescent woes, complained the panel.

Entice Consumer

With greater selection offered the consumer more and more claims must be made to entice him to buy the manufacturer's product. The panel drew the line between health aids which improve appearance and downright quackery when the product boasts promises it can not fulfill.

Much of the harm in quackery comes from establishing poor health patterns which will be carried over into adulthood, but actual physical harm — sometimes even death — can develop from certain gadgets (such as one currently marketed to pull out excess eye brows), Dr. St. Mary said, and creams.

Vitamins

Quackery in diets probably won't cause excessive physical harm. "Teen-agers have Puree sweetened frozen raspberries (defrosted) in the blender, then strain to remove seeds. Use the raspberry "sauce" with vanilla ice cream and sliced fresh peaches to concoct peach melba. Good enough for company!

Here's a different idea, and one youngsters will enjoy. Mix instant chocolate-flavored mix (the kind used for milk drinks) with sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over hot buttered toast.

paths of righteousness. Today's hand, taken from the 1966 Australian National Tournament.

Parents' World

Boy Should Make it Clear to Friend Bad Comments Hurt

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and most of the Australian experts won the first trick in dummy and returned a low club, losing the king to West's ace. This play would produce an overtrick if the five missing clubs broke 3-2, with the ace in the East hand. South would eventually get three club tricks with five tricks in the other suits.

Because of the actual club break those who tried this line of play got only one club trick—Down one.

American and Canadian experts will play this sort of hand in the same way in our own national tournament. The trouble is that overtricks are just as important in tournament bridge as making sure of the contract.

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: I want to be perfectly blunt about a problem that most people don't mention. I want your candid advice on this. We moved here a year ago and my son has two very good friends that he plays with every afternoon. One is Catholic, one is Protestant, and my son is Jewish although our last name doesn't sound Jewish.

Since Christmas, whenever there's any kind of fuss between the boys, as there naturally will be when boys play together, the Catholic boy calls my son a "Christ killer" and tells him to go away.

hurt him and he doesn't like to play with anyone who wants to hurt him. Once the other boy recognizes your boy means business, he will probably stop baiting him this way.

I tried dealing with this first by telling my son that the other boy was really angry over something else and was calling my boy this as an excuse. I was angry about I suggested that my son tell his boyfriend not to say things like that just because the boy's angry over something else. But the name calling still continued.

Plays Safe

At rubber bridge South should play safe for the contract. He wins the first trick in his own hand and leads a low club. This strange play doesn't hurt if the clubs break normally. South will still make two club tricks and makes the contract.

The advantage of leading the low club first is that South protects himself against one of the dangerous 4-1 breaks. In this case West must play his singleton ace of clubs, capturing nothing valuable with it. South later takes his two club tricks and makes the contract.

Then my husband told my boy to tell this other little fellow that the Pope who's the head of the Catholic Church said that Catholics should not call Jews such names. But when my boy told that to his friend, that boy said my boy was lying.

I don't want to turn this into a Supreme Court case because they actually get along very well most of the time, but I must admit it disturbs me that every argument ends this way lately. My son has no way to win an argument and I'm pretty tired of having him come in the house confused and angry because he doesn't understand what any of this really means. Is there anything I can suggest to him besides telling him that he should not play with this one particular boy any more? MRS. S. M.

You can help your son best by reassuring him that he can play alone or with other children whenever he doesn't like the way his best friend is treating him. Help him understand that he must tell his friend that such comments

Hurried Brides Sorry About Disregarding Gift Importance

Be sensible about wedding gifts, even though you are having a speedy wedding and plan to live in a furnished "meanwhile" house because your fiancé expects to be drafted.

That advice comes from a bride who was too busy to worry about wedding gifts, and discouraged offers. She could use them now, she says, and offers these tips to other brides-to-be:

Make a decision when someone asks what you would like as a gift. If you don't get it now, you may never get it. People forget.

Money isn't the bargain wedding gift you would think. A few hundred dollars doesn't last long. Friends are inclined to spend more on a gift if they know what you want. Tell them if they ask.

Every bride dreams of silver, porcelain and crystal, but you won't need them in a meanwhile home, so wait until you settle down to get the glamor gifts. Ask for the necessities.

Exchange duplicate wedding gifts or those you can't use now and don't be embarrassed about it. The giver expects you to make that decision.

Make a List

Make a list of absolute essentials needed in your meanwhile home and be prepared to pass it on to those who request it. Consider: sheets, pillowcases (doubles for laundry purposes), spread, pillows, blankets, washclothes, face towels, bath towels, kitchen towels, sauce pans, large and small frying pans, coffee pot, ca-se-role dish, sugar bowl, pitcher, butter dish, knives, forks, spoons, plates, soup bowls, dessert dishes, cups, saucers, glasses, alarm clock, cleaning and cooking aids, mop, pail, broom. (A vacuum cleaner is a big chunk out of the budget, but it is a necessity, particularly if one is a working wife.)

If you have all the necessities or the wherewithal to buy them, your family and friends may fill out silver, glass and china patterns.

Don't let pride stand in the way of common sense. Everything you can beg or borrow for the transient home is like money in the bank. Ask your parents and other relatives for fill-ins — things like blankets, sheets and towels they may not be using.

The serviceman's bride has a few other pointers such as: Stick with a budget so that you can include some recreation every week. There is lots of tension during the period when your husband is waiting to be called. Don't let boredom set into your marriage during this period.

Save for Home

After your husband is drafted, a working wife should try to earmark her own earnings for furnishings or a home of their own.

Plan to have a home waiting when your husband returns, but even though it would be a lot of fun to surprise him, let him in on everything as you go along. You don't want him to feel out of plans. Write to him occasionally about your ideas for furniture, color schemes, anything that comes to mind. Ask his advice. It will help you both to realize your dreams more quickly.

Your husband's absence provides you with time to create some handwork — embroidery, needlepoint — for your new home.

The Ailing House
Put Stone on Chimney With Care
BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
Q: I am considering facing the concrete block chimney on our summer log cabin with a layer of field stones. How is this done?
A: Quite a job, friend. The problem is the weight of the stones. Even if you use small ones. Mortar alone won't keep them from buckling away from the chimney if they're not properly laid. They must bear their own weight, like a stone wall, with the mortar assisting. If there's an old-time stone mason around, subsidize him.
Q: The wood in my outside front steps is good, but rough. I can't afford new steps. Can I cover them with something?
A: Rather than some covering, such as asphalt tile or a vinyl made for outdoor exposure, I suggest you sand the rough spots then paint with a top quality floor and deck enamel.
Q: Even during cold weather, the cold water pipe in our basement drips. In summer it is worse. But there is no leakage which I have been able to discover. Can you help?
A: The warm basement air condenses heavily on the very cold pipe, causing the drippy problem. The cure is simple. Just cover the pipe with insulating tape — available at any good hardware store — or asbestos jacketing. This is stocked by plumbing supplies dealers. As soon as the warm air is kept away, the condensation stops.

Q: Information, please, about destroying tree stumps in lawn. I can't afford to hire a man and a machine. Are the stump removing powders they advertise safe to use? How long will the roots burn?
A: The tree root destroying chemicals are safe enough, although strong. Don't handle too much with bare hands, and don't get in your eyes. Depending on the size of the stumps and the depth of the roots, the disintegration process can easily run into weeks. Even the burning process of pouring kerosene down bored holes is slow. Regular No. 2 fuel oil is a good stump killer, too. In fact it will kill just about any vegetation, so be careful not to get it where it's not wanted.

Charges on Revolving Credit Vary According to System

BY MARY FEELEY
Dear Miss Feeley:
I have two revolving credit charges at two different stores. I understand I'm paying the same cost of 1 1/2 per cent a month on each. But one store says the monthly charges are on the unpaid balance — and the other says they're on the previous month's balance. What's the difference? I'm confused.
B.E., New York City

Small wonder you're confused, with all the ways there are these days for figuring service charges. Revolving credit is often termed an "open-end installment plan" — being based on the assumption that you will add subsequent purchases to the initial one. So that, while your monthly payment — will remain even, your balance for each month will fluctuate, and so, too, will the cost of the service, even though the rate of 1 1/2 per cent remains the same.
To answer your question: When the monthly cost is figured on the unpaid balance at the first of the month, the amount you paid on the previous month's bill is deducted before the service charge is applied to the rest of what you owe. For instance, if you owed $100 last month and paid $30 of this bill, your balance at the first of the month would be $70. If, in the meantime, you haven't added any further purchases, your monthly statement shows — ing your unpaid balance, plus service charges, would be $71.05. That's a 1 1/2 per cent charge on the unpaid $70.

The second method of payment you mention works like this. Let's say again that you started with $100 worth of merchandise charged to your account. You received your bill and paid $30. When you receive your next bill, the service charge will have been figured on the entire $100 — for a total of $101.50. Then the $30 payment you made is subtracted, leaving the amount you owe $71.50.
So, there's a 45 cents difference, even though the service charges are quoted as the same.
These are not the only two methods by which credit charges are computed. In a recent study of six methods of revolving charges on a six-month basis, the service charges for the same amount of merchandise varied from $2.28 to $5.44. The difference between these two figures was determined by a number of factors: —
One plan allowed for a 30-day option to pay up, a service charge on merchandise returned was omitted; and under another plan, there was no service charge applied to payments made during the month. All these methods are perfectly legal, and are set up by various retail merchants according to their over-all plan of operation.

Police Form Committee
Purpose Will be To Elicit Support, Advise Community

The Appleton Professional Police Association today announced the formation of a public relations committee which will "advise the community about the nature of police work and elicit community cooperation in solving many of the problems it faces."
Sgt. James Cotter, association president, said in announcing the creation of the committee, "It is hoped that the public will achieve a greater awareness of the difficult tasks involved in law enforcement and that a closer working relationship will be established between the many civic and fraternal groups and the police department. A better understanding of the nature of police work and a coordinated approach against the problems facing this community will assure the most effective law enforcement available."
Committee chairman is Sgt. Philip Condu. Capt. Jerome Kavaney, Sgt. Cotter and Det. Richard Jirschele are members. Any civic group or service club wishing to arrange for a speaker from the Appleton Professional Police Association may contact the committee officials account in a good department store. I was married last April. My husband has two large bills which are not paid. They were contracted before I married him.

I myself have no bills and no credit reference. I have been working for the last four months and my boss is willing to help me. My mother has a good credit rating and she is also willing to help me get started toward establishing credit.
Would my husband's bill affect my chances of starting a charge account under my married name?
I have some money in a savings account, also in a checking account. I have offered you made is subtracted, leaving the amount you owe $71.50.

New Comedy Opens Tonight At Peninsula

The Midwest premier of "The Girl in the Freudian Slip," a new comedy by William F. Brown opens at Peninsula Players, Fish Creek, tonight. The Broadway vehicle will return Joannette Leahy, Carl Benson and Douglas Greene to the Theatre-in-a-Garden stage.

Take a psychiatrist, Dr. Dewey Maugham, played by Carl Benson, and have him write a play. Give him a wife, Paula, played by Miss Leahy. Put her in a constant battle between comfortable life she has known with Dewey and a more worldly sophisticated excitement she apparently yearns for.

Prepared Daughter
And give them a daughter, Leslie, played by Tamar Cohn, who is wise in the ways of adults particularly after living with intelligent parents who have spent years carefully preparing her for life.

These habits make up the seemingly normal household although at times all egos and sometimes libidos conflict. Additional ingredients in the boiling pot are stylish attractive ex-patient now a publisher's agent sent to edit the manuscript played by Lorraine Vozoff and a contemporary of Dewey's who if he had his life to live once more would fall in love with himself again played by David Hull.

The play runs through Sunday at 8:30 p.m. through Saturday 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Theatre in a Garden, Fish Creek. Tickets are available at the box office and Newman's Appleton and Green Bay.

China Might Push All Asia Into War

Peking Stirring Up Trouble With Neighbors, Indonesia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Red China's leaders, seeming to hate just about everybody and India, where the Chinese else, are playing with dynamite are agitating among and arm-which could easily explode into ing dissident tribesmen—the big war in Asia. purpose may be an internal one.

Peking is steaming up trouble With China itself in political tur-for her neighbors: Hong Kong, moil, outside enemies may be Burma, India, Macao, Thailand, necessary as a device to pull the Vietnam and Korea. Partly of Indonesia and heading Red China by now has the tiny it into another "people's war of liberation" in the style of Viet-nam.

Potentially, the most dan-ous activity at the moment s the turmoil Peking is stirring up in Britain's crown colony, Hong Kong.

It is difficult to fathom the reason for it. If the intention is eventually to force Britain out, a deadly dangerous situation would exist in British resistance or any U.S. involvement

If Red China's regime were considered a rational one, the guessing would be that it had no intention of grabbing Hong Kong since the colony is impor-tant to trade and one of the most important sources of Pek-ing's foreign exchange

But many consider the cur-rent Peking regime far from rational under Mao Tse-tung. Lin Piao, Kang Sheng, Chen Po-Ata and others who have band-ed together to dominate the country's armed forces and to purge opponents who might have been of a more cautious and practical turn of mind

Voster's Soft Approach Disliked by Afrikaners

JOHANNESBURG, South Af-rica (AP) — Prime Minister miership last September after Balhazar J. Vorster's "softer Hendrik F. Verwoerd was as-sassinated.

Some staunch upholders of apartheid view any divergence as a softening of the Afrikaner resolve to maintain complete racial segregation and an un-bow to world criticism after the Sharpeville massacre of 1960 brought him high esteem among the Afrikaner group

During the past nine months Vorster has endeavored to erase the "jailer" image thrust on him by some English-language newspapers He has encouraged friendly relations with South Africa's immediate neighbors, Lesotho, Botswana and Swazi-land, all landlocked territories economically dependent on the republic and all led by blacks.

Closer Ties

He was the first South African premier to dine with a black counterpart and repeatedly has offered closer contact with other independent African states.

Vorster made minor conces-sions in a sports controversy with an eye to putting this coun-try back into the Olympic games, from which it is barred. The occasional black sportsman may now accompany some vis-iting foreign teams. In the past only all-white sporting groups were allowed to play in the re-public.

The Rapportryers, or Dis-patch Riders, is another influ-ential body allied to the Hertzog group. It is an offshoot of the secret Broederbond, or Bond of Brothers, an exclusive Afrikan-er organization with widespread power in the country's political, cultural and economic life.

During a meeting of Hertzog supporters, the Rev. J. H. Jooste, secretary of the Society for Christian Higher Education, said: "There are voices in the political sphere who want us absorbed into an identityless culture. We want cooperation with other population groups but refuse to be accomplices to na-tional and cultural suicide."

Immigration Policy

Those dedicated to the Verwoerd policy of total Afrikaner domination question the desir-ability of uncontrolled immigra-tion, which is boosting the Eng-lish-speaking population and some religious groups competi-tive with the Dutch Reformed Church.

There is discontent at Vor-ster's attempts to bring liberal-minded English speakers into the Nationalist fold.

Johannesburg's antigovern-ment Rand Daily Mail says: "Not since the war has there been such a clash within the ranks of the Afrikaner people. It is seen in almost every sphere of life —political, religious, cul-tural and economic."

English Press

The Nationalist newspaper Die Vaderland, headed by Vor-ster, commented: "This Afrikan-er fight has already attracted the vultures of the English press who are circling with expecta-tion above us. Let us walk the road slowly and not pick up stones to hurl at each other."

The English-language Sunday Times asserted: "Vorster has not budged one inch from Na-tionalist party principles which he is sworn to uphold. He has sought to bring into public af-fairs a spirit of good will and tolerance, not only between the peoples of this country but also with the outside world"

Foxes Retain Lead Despite 5-3 Defeat

Expect Big Crowd for AAL Night

BY TIM PETERMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
The Appleton Foxes discovered that getting back to Goodland Field is not so "Home, Sweet Home" as they dropped a 5-3 decision to Burlington here Monday.

In 12 games at home in the second half of the Midwest League's split season, the Foxes have won six and lost the same number while they have captured 10 wins in 14 road contests.

Despite the loss, the Foxes second straight, Appleton maintained a 1-game lead over Dubuque in the ML pennant chase as the Packers lost to Wisconsin Rapids. Tonight Appleton will attempt to gain a split of the 2-game set with Burlington in a AAL Booster night contest.

Appleton also discovered that hitting shoes had been left behind on the recent road trip as a pair of Burlington hurlers limited the Foxes to just six safeties.

6 per Contest

In the 12 home games, the Foxes are averaging just over six hits per contest with nine the most and a pair of 2-hitters the least.

On the road, Appleton's booming bats have repped out almost 11 hits per tilt. In only four of the 14 road contests has Appleton had less than 10 hits.

Hitting was not the Foxes' only problem Monday night. Two Appleton errors gave Burlington three unearned runs and handed Ken Murphy his first.

Culp Sweats Out Rain Delay, Stops Cardinals, 3 to 1

Paces Cubs to Tie for Lead; Cuellar Holds Phils to 2 Hits

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ray Culp has parlayed a change of scenery and a change of pace into a change of direction... for himself and the non-stop Chicago Cubs.

Culp, the former Philadelphia fireballer who learned to pull the string on his fastball while sitting at Leo Durocher's elbow, pitched the Cubs back into a share of the National League lead Monday night with a five-hit 3-1 victory over St. Louis.

The victory, ninth for the Cubs in their last 11 games, pulled them even with the Cardinals going into tonight's second game of a three-game summit series at St. Louis.

2-Hit Pitching

Houston nipped Philadelphia 2-1 in 11 innings behind the two-hit pitching of Mike Cuellar and Los Angeles shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 in Monday's only other major league action.

Culp, who won seven games for the Phillies last season, squared his 1967 record at 8-8 by pitching out of a sixth-inning jam, sweating out a 51-minute rain delay and then knocking off the last nine Cardinals he faced.

Working under a steady down-pitcher Bob Shaw to the Chicago pour in the sixth with a 3-0 lead, Culp was the $20,000 waiver he was clipped for a run when pitcher Lou Brock singled, took second on a fly to center and scored on from the San Francisco Giants a double by Orlando Cepeda.

After an intentional walk to Roger Maris, Culp struck out Tim McCarver on a change-up average, and got Mike Shannon to fly out, ending the Cards' only serious threat.

Culp talked the Phillies into a winter deal that sent him to Chicago.

Cubs Obtain Hurler Shaw From Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets said Monday they had sold veteran right-handed pitcher Bob Shaw to the Chicago Cubs for the $20,000 waiver fee.

Shaw, 34, came to the Mets on a fly to center and scored on from the San Francisco Giants a double by Orlando Cepeda.

After an intentional walk to Roger Maris, Culp struck out Tim McCarver on a change-up average, and got Mike Shannon to fly out, ending the Cards' only serious threat.

Culp talked the Phillies into a winter deal that sent him to Chicago.

Another "Milwaukee Miracle?" It was like old times all over again as a turnout of 51,144 jammed Milwaukee County Stadium Monday night to see an exhibition game between the Chicago White Sox and the Minnesota Twins of the American League.

Officials said it was the largest crowd ever to see a game at the stadium. A large delegation of baseball officials was included in the group which watched the Twins edge the White Sox by a 2-1 score. (AP Wirephoto)

Errors Costly, New London Legion Loses

Green Bay West Has One Earned Run In 9-1 Victory

GREEN BAY — Green Bay West tallied only one earned run but five New London errors led to eight unearned markers as West recorded a 9-1 triumph in the American Legion Region 3 sub-regionals here Monday.

The victory enabled Green Bay to advance to the best-of-three sub-regional finals against Wrightstown, beginning Wednesday.

New London scored its only run of the game to take a 1-0 lead in the second but from there it was all Green Bay West.

Dennis Gutzman singled in the two to give West a 2-1 advantage after the third stanza and while players were hitting Green Bay pushed across two each other on practice fields at more in the fifth, one in the sixth, and two each in the final two frames.

Dennis Gutzman went the distance on the mound for the winners, giving up eight hits, Kenny Graham and defensive Chuck Learman yielded 11 hits in a route-going performance of camp Monday in a salary dispute, and Coach Sid Gillman pitchers struck out seven and fanned them $1,000 each walked two.

Gutzman, Jerry Tagge and Chuck Ebert each had two hits sibility" and said he would fine the players an additional $100 a triple, Greg Wing and Dave Moriarity had a pair of safeties for the losers with Moriarity collecting a double.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Little day for each practice session Noland Smith raced 86 yards they miss, with a punt return and Frank Pitts grabbed the game-winning touchdown pass from Sandy Stephens as the Kansas City Chiefs downed the Denver Broncos, 21-14, in a rookie-dominated American Football League exhibition game Monday night.

Fleming Nursing Shoulder Injury

GREEN BAY — The Packers dipped into their wealth of linemen Monday to stabilize the tight end situation, temporarily fluid in the wake of an injury to Marvin Fleming.

Towering Dick Capp, a quick change artist from Boston College by way of the Boston Patriots and the Lowell, Mass., "Giants," was transferred to the "Third tackle" spot to understudy the huge University of Utah alumnus and Allen Brown, back for a third pass at full-time employment.

Fleming, who won the starting berth from Bill Anderson mid-way through the 1966 season, incurred a shoulder injury in last Saturday's scrimmage and will be withheld from contract for a week.

Recent Retirement
This development, plus the recent retirement of Anderson, had left the Pack with only two able-bodied candidates at the position, Brown and rookie Hardland Reed of Mississippi State.

For Capp, it was the second assignment in as many practice days. Delayed in reporting by a two-week National Guard stint at Fort Devens, Mass., he checked in Friday night and was stationed at linebacker, the position he played with the Lowell Giants last season behind such stalwarts as Ray Nitschke, LeeRoy Caffey, Dave Robinson and Tommy Crutcher.

"Today was my first full day at tight end," the 6-4, 235-pound Portland, Md., native observed following Monday afternoon's practice. "I only had one day at linebacker... but that really doesn't bother me — I just want to make it."

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee, a city that ran out of miracles, it staged one in miniature Monday night when 51,144 paying fans turned out for an exhibition game.

"It's unbelievable," said Ed die Stanky, manager of the Chicago White Sox, 2-1 losers to the Minnesota Twins in a game that drew the largest paid attendance in Wisconsin baseball history. "These fans are dying for baseball."

Commissioner William Eckert, American League president Joe Cronin and other baseball officials were also impressed by the 5,000 fans were turned away at standing-room-only response to the first game between major league teams at County Stadium since the Braves left for Atlanta after the 1965 season.

Not Pinned Down
"It's a tremendous thing," said Eckert, who would not be pinned down on what effect, if any, the one night's attendance was 49,944, also set in 1954. Seated capacity at the stadium is 47,634.

But Calvin R. Griffith, Twins' president, replied with a blunt "Hell, no" when asked if he thought owners could ignore the size of the crowd. "All you have to do is sit down and figure the attendance in certain towns," Griffith said. "The way some ball clubs are drawing, they ought to move. They'd be better off in Milwaukee."

Milwaukee provided what became known as the "Milwaukee Miracle" with four successive seasons in which Braves' home attendance shot above the 2 million mark.

That was in the beginning of the Braves' 13-season tenure.

Thousands Greet Team at Airport

Epidemic of Pennant Fever Hits Fans of Red-Hot Boston Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — If pennant fever is a disease, then Boston should be quarantined.

The epidemic broke out Sunday night when a boisterous crowd of 6,000 fans surged through Logan International Airport to welcome their diamond heroes home from a doubleheader sweep of the Cleveland Indians, 8-5 and 5-1.

The surging Red Sox, winners of 10 straight and 12 out of their last 13, are half-game behind the Chicago White Sox, who held on to first place in the American League by winning a doubleheader at Kansas City, 8-4 and 1-0.

The fans spilled out onto a flight ramp, and worried airport officials directed the club's United Airlines jet charter plane to land on the other side of the field.

Win It All

"I've never seen anything like this," said slugger Carl Yastrzemski. "We're going to win it all."

The fans thought so too. They treated United's cargo terminal like the Red Sox treat American League pitching — hit it early and often.

Fans swarmed over equipment and cartons of air freight, some marked "fragile."

At one point, a four-engine DC6 cargo plane revved up and began to taxi out onto the darkened ramp which was covered by a portion of the milling throng.

The crowd had pushed through state police barricades and was spread over a half-mile of airplane ramps. Airport vehicles flashed lights and honked horns to clear the crowd from the path of the taxiing aircraft.

Cuffed and Shoved

After the team was cheered, cuffed and shoved through a path from a bus to an office in the United freight terminal, Manager Dick Williams puffed,

"We knew there'd be a crowd, but nothing like this."

The confident Williams added, "This sure will be a tremendous inspiration for the ball club."

The size of the turnout on the hot, humid and windless night apparently was due in part to reports during the game by radio play-by-play announcer Ken Coleman, who advised when the team's flight would arrive and suggested that fans be on hand to welcome them.

State police called for reinforcements as the crowd kept coming.

The players' departure from the airport was delayed for more than an hour after they touched down at 10 20 p.m.

Fans pounded the backs of players, sports writers and passersby alike.

Signs made of cardboard, bed-sheets and pillowcases fluttered throughout the mass of cheering fans, proclaiming: "Springfield Welcomes The Red Sox."

And, that old favorite, "We're Number One."

the fans a show, did his best. He started former Brave relief ace, Don McMahon, who went one inning and gave up a run on a ground rule double into the crowd by Bob Allison and a single by Harmon Killebrew.

The White Sox tied the game in the fourth when Walter (No Neck) Williams doubled to left center after a single and stolen base by Dick Kenworthy.

Dennis Kissane, a former pitcher for Appleton in the Midwest League, was on the mound for the White Sox when the Twins got the decisive run in the Krull of Lynchburg.

Rich Reese doubled down the left field line. Rich Rollins singled Reese to third. Stanky brought in the venerable Hoyt Wilhelm in relief. Wilhelm surrendered a sacrifice fly to Zoilo Versalles that scored Reese.

Jim King came within a few feet of tying the game in the ninth when his line shot to left curved foul at the fence. That was the last Chicago gasp.

Kissane was one of three farmhands used by the Chisox on the mound. Others included Charlie Kline. Kissane's teammate at Indianapolis, and Steve Krull of Appleton.

Krull went four innings allowing just three hits and no runs.

Originally, there was speculation that both major leagues would expand to 12-team circuits on a coordinated basis, but the latest indication, the sources said, is that the American League, both because of Milwaukee's readiness and the fact that departure of the Athletics for Oakland might bring on another cycle of abandonment complaints, will act alone if necessary.

Then, with two years for Milwaukee and Kansas City to set up farm systems, working agreements acquire ball players and in Kansas City's case build its vast new park complex, the league would divide its teams into an Eastern circuit of New York, Boston, Baltimore, and Billy Smith was one of 14 Washington, Cleveland and De- rookies released during the trot, and to match the younger weekend by the St. Louis foot clubs and develop their rival ball Cardinals.

Box Seats All Sold Out for 3 Cub Dates

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, enjoying overwhelming success at the gate, announced Monday that box seats for three upcoming games on their next home stand are sold out.

Sellouts on boxes were for the St. Louis doubleheader Aug. 2, a single game against Atlanta Aug. 6 and a doubleheader against Philadelphia Aug. 13.

In each case, there will be some 22,500 unreserved grandstand seats on sale the day of the game.

The Cubs have drawn 570,468 at home this season and expect to go beyond last year's total of 635,891 in the early part of their next home stand which opens against St. Louis, July 31.

In their recent six-day home stand, the Cubs drew 143,008 for an average of about 24,000 per date.

Atlanta Rallies To Tip Richmond Farm Club, 7-6

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A five-run rally in the seventh inning erased a 6-2 deficit and propelled the Atlanta Braves to a 7-6 exhibition baseball win over their Richmond farm club of the International League.

Tito Francona had four singles and Mack Jones added three to lead the Braves' 17-hit attack on three Richmond pitchers.

The farm hands had built a 6-2 lead in the first six innings mainly on the strength of a four-run uprising in the fourth against a former teammate, left-hander Dick Kelley, who booted a grounder with the bases loaded and then threw wildly to first base, enabling three runs to score.

Foxes Retain Lead Despite 5-3 Setback loss of the season after four straight victories.

The Bees got an unearned marker to take a 1-0 lead in the second inning. An error on Appleton newcomer Stu Singleton put leadoff man Bob Brooks on first. Pete Koegel beat out a slow dribbler to third and both runners advanced on a passed ball. Skip Lockwood walked to load the bases and after a strike out, Dwain Anderson lined a shot to center to plate a run.

Cepeda Doubles

In the fourth with one out, Koegel hit a bad-hop grounder over Roy Rademaker's head. He advanced on a wild pitch and raced home on Jaime Cepeda's double down the right field line.

Appleton came back to knot the count at 2-up in their half of the fifth. Art Kusnyer led off by lining an unplayable shot at third baseman Dick Fernandez. Joe Monty walked and then Kusnyer was picked off second by the catcher Cepeda. The play saved the Bees a run as Bob Stickle followed by walking Chuck Brinkman and Singleton to load the bases.

Ken Murphy aided his own cause by hitting a sacrifice fly to right and Jose Ortiz kept alive his 11-game hitting streak with a single behind the second baseman into right to drive in run No. 2.

Burlington wasted little time in repairing the damage as it pushed across its final markers in the sixth. Two hits, including a double, a 2-base throwing error on Rademaker, and another single and double accounted for all of the visitors runs.

Futile Attempt

Appleton made a futile attempt to close the gap in the eighth as a walk, two infield hits and an error produced a run.

After the first nine batters went down in order, Appleton put men on in every inning, leaving nine men stranded in the final six frames. The Foxes received the aid of nine Burlington walks. The Bees on the other hand had men on only in the innings they scored as they were three up, three down in the other six innings.

Two Appleton threats were eliminated by means of double-plays while the Foxes got out of one jam with a twin-killing.

Two of the high spots for Appleton were the play of All-American catcher Brinkman who threw out two stealing Bees and the return of Jeff Kolb.

Riots Force Detroit to Switch Tilts

Tigers Will Open
Set at Baltimore
Instead of Home

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's spreading riots have surrounded Tiger Stadium and forced the club to play outside the city.

Instead of opening a three-game series with the Baltimore Orioles in Detroit tonight, the Tigers are in Baltimore to play the night game at Memorial Stadium.

The clubs will meet again in Baltimore Thursday night.

The third Baltimore game scheduled for Detroit this week has been re-scheduled as a two-night doubleheader at Tiger Stadium Aug. 11.

Two Tigers-Orioles games scheduled for Baltimore Sept. 12 and 13 will be played in Detroit giving the Tigers a full home schedule.

The postponements came after the city extended a 9 p.m. curfew indefinitely and banned public gatherings of five or more persons.

Not only was baseball affected, but all sports, including horse racing, boxing, auto racing, prize fighting and golf matches were curtailed.

could take something off the fast ball it would really make him a good pitcher.

"That's how he got McCarver out tonight. He took this much off the ball," and Leo spread his arms about four feet apart to make his point.

Positive Thinking

Culp credits Durocher for more than a new pitch, however. The 25-year-old Texan feels the manager is responsible for the positive thinking that has characterized the Cubs' rise from last year's cellar finish.

"As soon as I went to spring training I noticed they had a winning attitude," Culp said.

The Cubs broke in front against St. Louis starter Larry Jaster in the second inning when Ron Santo singled, Ernie Banks doubled home a run and, after a walk and Clarence Jones' infield hit filled the bases, reliever Jack Lamabe walked another run across.

Singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams plus Santo's run-scoring ground out boosted the lead to 3-0 in the fifth.

Cuellar, who struck out 12, including five of the first seven men he faced, gave up a bad-hop double by Cookie Rojas in the fifth inning, then held the Phils hitless until Bill White singled in the 11th.

Scored Winning Run

The Houston southpaw also scored the winning run in the bottom of the 11th, drawing a walk and moving around to third on a sacrifice and an error before Jim Wynn's single broke the 1-1 deadlock.

Jim Lefebvre's run-scoring single in the ninth lifted the Dodgers past the Pirates after they had wiped out a 3-0 Pittsburgh lead. Dick Schofield, who Dan then holed his second shot—and that was an eagle 2 by any standards.

Willie Davis' single to tie it 3-3.

Mystery Within an Enigma

Even those men and women who are assigned to report the news of the legislature on a day to day basis are inclined to confess that some of the actions and attitudes there are impenetrably puzzling.

Generally unnoticed the other day in the press of other legislative events was one of the most mysterious items of legislative news, and an example of the kind that has bred in this country a popular attitude of amused contempt for legislatures.

At a time when the state's lawmakers were locked in a serious dispute about raising the legal age for beer drinking, and conceding that Gov. Knowles as the leader of that cause may have good reasons for his attitude, Assemblyman Kunde of Sheboygan arose in the Assembly to make a motion.

He asked that a bill to lower the legal age for the consumption of hard liquor — from 21 years to 19 years — be taken from committee and referred to the Assembly calendar for action. His motion was promptly defeated, but he managed to get 17 votes for his utterly ridiculous and presumptuous proposition.

Is there anyone in this state who believes that more than the tiniest minority of the population wants to change the laws to approve the sale of liquor to minors? Is there anyone in this state who is not able to guess that this was not offered at the request of any representative group of citizens, but manifestly reflects the greedy ambitions of the liquor lobby?

There is no possibility that such a proposal will be seriously considered by the legislature, or that it will even be given the dignity of a formal vote of rejection. Yet it symbolizes an atmosphere and an attitude in Madison that has long troubled us, and it suggests that the arrogant but diligent men who represent the liquor trades in lobbying row there require unremitting vigilance from the Wisconsin press and public.

That group of legislative persuaders has managed on other occasions to achieve new laws that appear to defy popular judgment and wishes. Some years ago it managed to collect enough votes in the Senate and Assembly, and to persuade a governor, to enact a law limiting the extension of credit by liquor wholesalers to retailers to 30 days, and to require the State Tax Department to enforce the limitation. The argument, such as it was, is that the whole liquor distribution business is vested with a public interest, and that the state has an obligation to drive out of it marginal operators, such as those who don't pay their bills promptly.

The same assertion could be made on behalf of pharmacists who sell drugs, or used car dealers who sell autos to youngsters, or motorcycle dealers or even physicians purveying medicines. But is there any doubt that the wholesalers with whom they deal would be laughed out of the capitol if they proposed similar state-enforced credit restrictions? We note with satisfaction that a Dane County judge, in the first test case of the liquor and beer credit law, has ruled it constitutionally invalid. We are confident that the higher courts, if they are asked, will sustain him.

Community Radio Watch

Praise is in order for those persons responsible for organizing Community Radio Watch, a new program designed to provide local law enforcement with more eyes and ears.

Most of the planning was done by an Appleton police sergeant, but the program would not have been possible without the cooperation of many of the city's private citizens, organizations, business and industrial firms and municipal utilities having vehicles with two-way radios.

Under the program — Appleton is only the third city in the state to have it — persons having two-way radios in their business or personal vehicles will swiftly notify police of suspicious acts or outright crimes that they observe. The program has a lot of potential. Some firms, such as the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., have a great many radio-equipped vehicles and radio units such as taxicabs are on the road every hour of the day.

Those persons taking part in Community Radio Watch will not be playing policeman. That is, they will not investigate suspicious acts nor will they have any powers of arrest. But, in many respects, these persons will be like hundreds of more policemen on the streets. They can play a big role in crime prevention and can provide police with invaluable information on crimes that otherwise could be without clues.

Community Radio Watch is a potentially big step forward in Appleton's total law enforcement program.

The Arms Supply Game

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has suggested that the United States will once again supply military equipment to some countries in the Middle East, in particular Israel, Saudi Arabia and Jordan. Since Jordan and Israel at least took an active part on opposite sides in the recent six day war, it may seem ridiculous for the United States to give them both more weapons with which to fight each other. But the whole matter of arms supply is a complex one.

American officials argue that we must supply such arms or the other countries will get them anyway from the Soviet Union or even Red China and then be drawn into the Communist orbit. Reliance upon our arms is no guarantee of the backing of American policies of course, as the Middle Eastern conflict has just demonstrated. Jordan's King Hussein is a moderate voice in Arab affairs which is a major reason he has had so much American support in the past. But for internal reasons there was never any doubt but that Jordan would oppose Israel in the war.

Basically the American sales of arms to other countries is to help them protect themselves against the aggression of neighbors, whether Communist or just hungry, and to put down internal revolts. This is aimed at stability and also at trying to make it unnecessary for the United States to act as a world policeman. But the results often do not bear out the premise. India and Pakistan went at each other's throats with American arms on both sides. Congo troops, saved in part by American planes, went on a rampage, looting, raping and slaughtering the innocent. Greece now has a military government as dictatorial as any on the other side of the Iron Curtain. And the Turks and Greeks have often in the past few years threatened each other with American arms. But there may be areas of the world which have deterred aggression and revolution because of the possession of American arms.

However, while the aim may be a reasonable one, there certainly should be doubts about the extent of the American foreign arms business and the way in which it is conducted. This has come up in the criticism by Congressman Henry Reuss of different figures given by the Export-Import Bank and how involved the bank is in arms transactions.

Since 1961 the United States has sold abroad $12.6 billion worth of military equipment. It has worked out a system of offset payments to make the deals more palatable to other countries and encouraged such countries to figure on a five year basis. There is a sales team which travels around making pitches, often assisted by representatives of the military. The arms market is a highly competitive one and, no doubt about it, a highly lucrative one. In one sense at least, the United States government is giving active assistance to one segment of American industry by its efforts to encourage other nations to buy our arms. Obviously there must be some amount of pressure to continue these efforts regardless of how wise they are.

In the Middle East the Soviet Union has served to start the arms race again by its replacement of some of the equipment lost by the Arabs. But this is indeed not only a vicious circle but it could be a fatal one. We should not forget that the Russians have the same fears as American officials that failures to supply arms will mean loss of influence and prestige.

Simply not making the more sophisticated weapons of war available will not mean an end to conflicts. The two sides in Nigeria now are doing quite well at killing each other with archaic weapons. The degrees of hatred which exist among so many of the peoples of the newer nations is bound to mean their extensive efforts to find means of defeating or conquering those they regard as traditional enemies.

But it seems as if United States military assistance to other countries is overly large. In the long run, it is the economic and social progress in such countries which should make war less inviting and likely — or so we must continue to hope.

Enemy Still Holds Initiative in Vietnam; It's Mismanaged War

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Listen to Marshal Yeh Chien, Inspector General of the Red Chinese armed forces and a chief military adviser to the North Vietnamese, speaking in East Berlin:

Taylor

"Distant fighting is a Western specialty — fighting with long-range weapons on vehicles, airplanes and ships. Close war means to fight a few feet away or face to face. This is our specialty: fighting within the American ranks, supported by terrorism, sabotage, diversion. We have only to use close fighting, night fighting, rear-echelon fighting long enough and we can nullify the Western enemy."

Thus the basic North Vietnamese tactic, which traps us again and again, is to break contact, whenever our superior forces arrive or can outgun them, and go away.

For six solid years and throughout Washington's troop build-up from 12,000 to nearly 500,000 men, we have been told we are doing better in Vietnam. But the enemy still holds the initiative. Our forces still are constantly sent, like a fire engine, or summoned like a lifeboat, to the scene of some larger and larger forces and bring larger and larger forces back.

KNOW WE'RE COMING

The First Cavalry Division (armored), for example, is even airlifting its artillery. Its Chinook helicopters sail off with 100mm field pieces; CH-54 Skyranes put immense howitzers into the jungle. The problem is to get them back.

The tank mainstay is the M48A-3 Patton tank. It weighs a tidy 54 tons. Its 90-mm. guns fire high-explosive, phosphorus and shrapnel canister shells — when they can find something to shoot at. The battalion leader commands them from a helicopter overhead. Few of the enemy fail to know we're coming.

Meanwhile, sucked by the enemy's strategy into absolutely impossible terrain, the

High Heels Harder on Floor Than Elephants

NEW YORK (AP) — A 120-pound woman can exert more pressure than an elephant — if she happens to be wearing high "stiletto" shoes, says the Tile Council of America.

In a torture test of various flooring materials in which only ceramic mosaic tile survived, it was found that a woman shod in high fashion shoes can put a pressure of 3,500 pounds beneath one heel. An elephant develops only 50 to 100 pounds of pressure per square inch beneath its foot, the Tile Council said.

Attorney General Is Gaining New Stature Under Kellett Plan

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The fact that Attorney General Bronson La Follette finds so much in the attitude and the record of the Knowles administration to condemn as he travels the speech circuit is one of the reasons for the widespread impression that he is preparing to run for governor next year. But the attorney general has had little or nothing to say about one item in the administration's record that will probably be remembered longer than most — the extensive reorganization of the state government that is now assured with the final enactment of the Kellett bill.

Wyngaard

It is fair to suggest under the circumstances that the silence of the ranking Democrat now holding office in the state government can be construed as consent, if not actual endorsement. That consent is almost surely related to the fact that among many other consequences of the reorganization program will be a considerable enhancement of the powers, duties, staff size and general importance of the office LaFollette now holds.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT PLAN

In pursuing the logic of the functional realignment of services that was the major theme and goal of the reorganization commission, its members easily agreed that there ought to be a central department of justice and that the attorney general is the man who should direct it.

That has now been provided in the new law. The attorney general will be the man who will have the responsibility of re-shaping his staff accordingly. With the additional units annexed to his jurisdiction, his staff of subordinates is likely to be doubled, or even tripled, and the attorney general will be a more important man in the whole governmental structure than any of his predecessors.

To be transferred to the division of criminal investigation in the attorney general's department of justice, now headed by the capable Leroy Dalton, will be these agencies scattered elsewhere in the official establishment:

The arson investigation program of the Department of Insurance, with its chief fire marshal and his deputies and clerks distributed around the state.

The criminal investigatory functions of the Beverage and Cigarette Tax Division of the State Department of Taxation such as the policing of prostitution and the suppression of gambling under the 20 year old law outlawing commercial gambling in the state.

The State Crime Laboratory, with its considerable staff.

ODD CONNECTIONS NOTED

There never was any good reason for the attachment of a purely criminal investigation function to a tax administration, or the separate establishment of the crime laboratory, or even the association of arson investigations and prosecutions with the business of insurance tax collection and rate supervision. Undoubtedly the cause for such implausible attachments was the fact that the Legislatures originating the services didn't dare or took the path that looked easy at the time.

As it happens, the transfer of the Crime Laboratory to the direct control of the attorney general comes at a time when some local enforcement authorities have their differences with Charles Wilson, its chief. Some of their critical statements indicate that the head of the new department of justice will be obliged to mollify those local agencies as a first order of business.

If the attorney general had his way, he would augment the services and powers of his office to an even greater degree. He would transfer to his agency the responsibility for the investigation and prosecution of consumer fraud cases now perhaps indirectly vested in the State Department of Agriculture. But there is little likelihood of such action while the conservative Republican Legislature is in power. In fact, the Legislature at the moment appears uncertain about what it wants to do about other questions of consumer protection, as in regulation of revolving credit, and time differential changes which Mr. LaFollette has hammered upon with considerable effect.

Racing Driver Scared To Death on Highway

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was met at the airport recently by a racing driver, who was escorting me to a meeting. We drove into the city from the airport at a measured — almost stately — pace, although he was driving a Jensen that doesn't get out of second gear until 80 mph.

Harris

"You're a pretty cautious fellow on the road," I ventured to say as we were halfway there. He looked at me out of the corner of his eye and replied: "Believe me, if there was any other way to get there, I wouldn't have driven."

"You don't like driving on public roads?" I asked. "Like it?" he exclaimed. "I'm scared to death of it. And there's not a man in my business who wouldn't rather be doing 140 around a track than 80 on the open highway."

"The one safe thing about racing," he went on, "is that you generally know what the other fellow is about to do. He's rational, and he's trained to drive properly. More than that, he's really prudent — all that movie talk about the 'daredevil' driver is rot. A daredevil driver ends up dead before he wins many races."

"But what about those crashes in auto races?" I inquired. "Ninety per cent of those crashes," he said, "temporarily because the machine is being tested to the ultimate, and something gives way. It's not the human element, but the mechanical element. We're most afraid of on the track."

"In public driving," he continued, "it's almost exactly the opposite. I'd say that accidents are 90 per cent due to the human element, and only 10 per cent — if that — to the mechanical. This doesn't mean that cars shouldn't be safer — but it does mean that the physical and mental and emotional condition of the driver is the overwhelming factor."

"What can we do about that?" I wanted to know. He shrugged. "It's anybody's guess. No appeal seems to work — not to fear, or to sympathy, or to reason, or to self-interest. Millions of potential murderers are driving cars today — people who are mentally deficient, who are physically uncoordinated and, most of all, who are emotionally unbalanced."

He paused while a motorist cut in front of us without warning. "I'm the biggest chicken on the road you ever saw," he said, "because I know how fast an accident can happen, and how little it takes to cause it. Maybe the only way to cut down on auto deaths is to train everybody to be a racing driver."

Looking Backward

River Improvement Matters

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for July 27, 1867.

The coffer dam is in the process of erection at Menasha, in the channel, and the Canal Company expects by Sept. 1 to have the ledge of rocks inside the mouth of that outlet to Lake Winnebago taken out so as to afford four feet of water in the channel at its lowest stage.

The timber is ready at DePere, and the repairs at this point will be completed at once.

The Montello lock is being built as fast as men and money can do it.

One dredge is at work. The new dredge, capable of excavating 800 yards (of earth) per day, will be out next week and a vast improvement is expected on the Wisconsin and the Upper Fox as a result of its labor.

We beg to repeat our suggestion that in every neighborhood petitions to Congress should be asked for an appropriation for a ship canal; they should be circulated early; and that a combined effort be made at the next session to carry through the Rock and Wisconsin River projects, and, at least, the lower Fox River portion of the proposed enlargement.

Guard Riot Training Will be Intensified

Experiences in New Jersey Show Need; Troops Understandably Scared

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The much-criticized performance of the New Jersey National Guard during the Newark riots has led to a highly confidential push by the Johnson administration to remodel the National Guard for riot duty in the nation's Negro slums.

Because Negro rioting is expected to recur throughout the summer and because the Guard is the only force that can deal with it, this project is being given top priority by high officials in the Administration (not, incidentally, in the Pentagon). The operation consists basically of two parts:

1. A crash program to enlist Negroes in the lily-white National Guard, which remains the last vestige of segregation in the military establishment.
2. Immediate and intensive training in anti-riot techniques, replacing usual drills geared to conventional warfare.

Indiscriminate Firing

What gives this project urgency are the validated and disturbing reports from Newark now reaching Washington. Understandably frightened by their first taste of combat under such chaotic conditions, young white Guardsmen engaged in indiscriminate firing of their weapons. Understandably incensed by the Negro onslaught on white merchants, they over-reacted and wrecked the stores of Negro merchants and shouted anti-Negro obscenities.

Out of 6,404 men in 11 Guard units dispatched to Newark, there were only 77 Negroes or 1.2 per cent. That is not much out of line with the national average (just over 1 per cent) or New Jersey state (1.7 per cent) share of Negroes in Guard units.

The problem is not one of outright discrimination, and is therefore all the more difficult to resolve. In small towns across the country, Guard units are highly social in nature — much like the local chapter of the Moose or Elks. Few Negroes even try to join.

The problem of anti-riot training is not so severe. Regular Army techniques — for example, the anti-riot training given the U.S. Garrison in West Berlin — could be written into the Federal standards for National Guard training.

INTEGRATING DEMOCRATS

The tough rules requiring racially integrated delegations at the next National Convention laid down by a subcommittee of the Democratic National Committee were by no means a foregone conclusion. When the subcommittee convened in Washington on July 12, Wyatt, for his associations with the sentiment against the ADA, seemed to have jelled.

National Chairman John Bailey wanted to treat the South much more tenderly. Moreover, in previous meetings since 1965 under the chairmanship of the late David Lawrence, former governor of Pennsylvania, the subcommittee had gotten nowhere; the new chairman, Governor Richard Hughes of New Jersey, was unfamiliar with the subject.

In fact, the only reason the tough rules were adopted was the persistence, occasionally against Bailey's determined opposition, of three liberals — national committee members Mildred Jeffrey of Michigan and Eugene Wyman of California and the subcommittee's counsel, veteran liberal activist Joseph Rauh.

Moreover, this liberal trio got a badly needed boost early in the closed session from Vice President Humphrey. Dropping by unexpectedly, Humphrey told the subcommittee they must write air-tight regulations that would prevent a recurrence of 1964 when no delegation at all occupied the seats of Mississippi at the National Convention.

HEAVY-HANDED LABOR

The heavy-handed pressure tactics used by railway labor in its fruitless attempts to block President Johnson's compulsory arbitration bill were typified in Javits, the liberal Republican who was the deciding vote in the Senate-House conference for compulsory arbitration. At one point in the proceedings, a labor lobbyist approached a key Democrat Arthur Goldberg against whom Javits switched his vote.

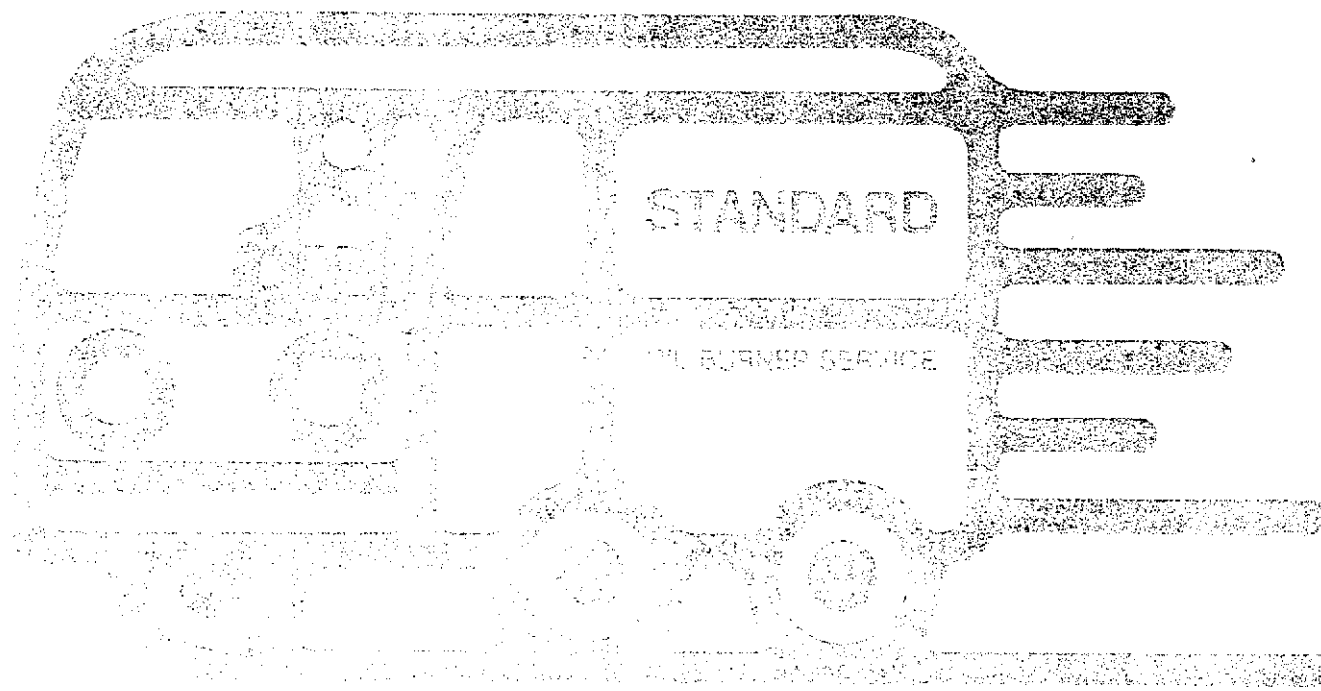

Apart from failing to move the threat revealed political ineptitude on two scores. First, there is only a remote chance that Goldberg will run for the senate. Second, Goldberg took time off from his duties as the United Nations Ambassador to the Johnson administration to help the compulsory arbitration bill that Javits was backing.

MORTON AND ADA

A sign of the times is the fact that Republican Senator Thorton Morton of Kentucky plans to follow up a senate speech next week urging new approaches on Vietnam by inserting in the Congressional Record a Viet-racially integrated delegations speech by John Kenneth Galbraith, national chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA). Back in 1962, the committee were by no means a Democratic foe for the senate, then Governor of Kentucky Lt. Gov. Wilson vened in Washington on July 12, Wyatt, for his associations with the sentiment against the ADA, seemed to have jelled.

LBJ Moves 'With Regret'

President Emphasizes Troops
Being Sent at Romney Request

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today that he takes this action with the greatest regret—and only because of the clear, unmistakable evidence that lawlessness after he sent federal troops into riot-torn Detroit has been unable to bring the situation under control.

In a brief television broadcast ending after midnight, Johnson announced his decision to heed Michigan Gov. George Romney's request for federal troops. From Capitol Hill came a political bickering and speculation in the wake of riot developments.

"I am sure the American people will realize," said the grim-faced, bespectacled President.

Vietnam Veterans Tighten Clamp on Riot-Torn Detroit

...Everybody Started Firing at Everybody

BY FRANK S. JOSEPH

DETROIT (AP)—The fire that broke out at Linwood and Vicksburg at 2:15 a.m. today may still burn as you read these words.

The firemen were supposed to put it out, but they couldn't. They were caught in a crossfire of bullets. They never got past Virginia Park Avenue, a block away.

Three Detroit policemen were shot during the exchange of gunfire, which went on for more than an hour. One is in critical condition, two are in serious condition.

The fire broke out in a halfblock stretch of stores and apartments.

The snipers started firing when the firemen arrived, so the police and the National Guard were called in. Then everybody started firing at everybody and it's hard to tell just who shot whom.

Two firemen and a newsman sat huddled against the side of a fire engine, breathing tear gas and watching the Guardsmen shoot. The three weren't armed, so they just crouched against the truck and cried tear-gas tears.

"Yep, looks like they had a 4,800-volt line in there," the other said. Then there were shots, so they all shut up and squeezed smaller.

"Here we are in the middle of a war," said the first fireman, "with no weapons, no way out and our thumbs stuck up our noses."

The newsman said he'd like to get to a phone so he could tell his office about all this. He started for his car, some three blocks back, but he was greeted by sniper fire.

"I think it would be unwise of you to leave," one of the firemen told him. After a while, though, an armored personnel carrier, which looks like a 20-foot-long, olive drab gravy boat on wheels, lumbered past going in the right direction. So the newsman said goodbye to the firemen and ran behind it.

The personnel carrier only went as far as a group of National Guardsmen and police who were crouching behind several Jeeps near Linwood and Philadelphia avenues. They were pointing their weapons at a second-floor window across the street.

Somebody fired at them, or so it seemed. They crouched behind the Jeeps and began firing back. The newsman crouched, too.

Soon the firefight turned into a constant roar of hot lead. The newsman sprawled flat. Shell casings hit him on the head.

After a while, the Guardsmen decided to stop firing. They did and nobody sniped back. So they got into their Jeeps and carriers and drove on.

The newsman, who wasn't sure the sniper was tired of the game, ran the half-block to his car at a low crouch. He found that somebody had shot away the rear window, but the engine started when he turned the key.

23 Die in Michigan Violence

DETROIT (AP) — Ordered into action by President Johnson, Army paratroopers clamped an iron lid on Detroit today, and calm returned at least for the moment, after 48 hours of killing, pillaging and burning.

Some new fires broke out. Sporadic sniper fire splattered against walls and sidewalks.

But the presence of the paratroopers — 40 per cent of them combat tested in Vietnam — appeared to have brought a lull in the wild Negro rioting that laid waste to huge sections of the city and claimed 23 lives.

Cyrus Vance, special assistant in the Defense Department and Johnson's deputy at the scene, urged businesses and industries to reopen.

He asked citizens to come back to jobs, but the plea went largely unheeded. The center of the city was virtually a ghost town.

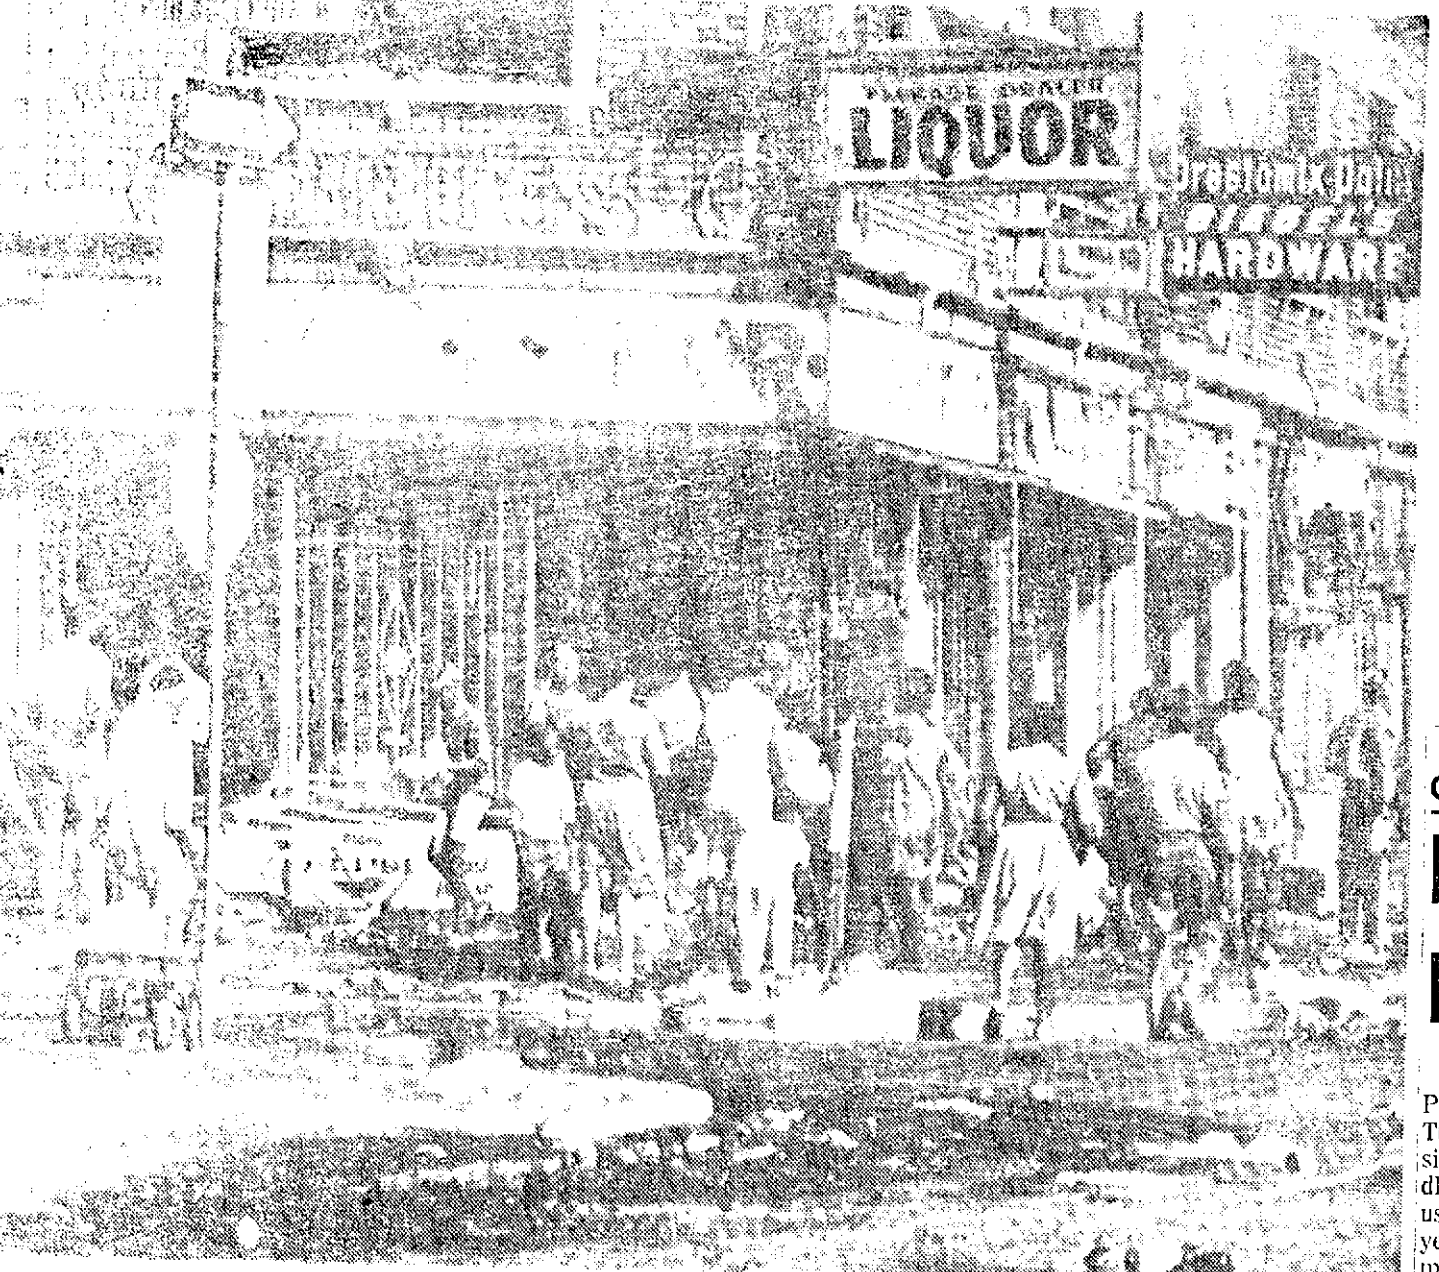

Curfew Remains

Gov. George Romney, appearing with Vance and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh at a news conference, said a curfew would remain in effect indefinitely as would an order closing bars, liquor stores, gasoline stations and all places of entertainment.

"Due to an apparent improvement in the over-all situation, Gov. Romney, Mayor Cavanagh and I are requesting businesses, retail stores and industries to Turn to Page 11, Col. 1

Looters Have No Color Barriers

EDITOR'S NOTE — The riots in Detroit have not followed the same pattern of development set in Harlem in 1964 and followed closely ever since. Reported Austin Scott, who has been on the scene for nine of these civil uprisings explores the different turn taken by Detroit.

DETROIT (AP) — The large sign chalked on a white serawl across the charred doorway read "Black Power," but Detroit's second day of violence was aimed not so much at skin color as at color television sets. In no other riot-sacked city has there been such wholesale cooperation between Negroes and whites queuing up like happy locusts for a running grab at life's luxuries. Shiny Cadillacs, some 1967 models, some driven by Negroes and some by whites, lined up along Grand River Avenue Monday morning to be stowed with everything from stuffed pandas to dining room tables. A red-haired white man directed operations as dozens of Negroes disappeared into the store basement, emerging with two portable television sets clutched in each hand. Late Sunday night a happy

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — he stepped onto the soil of a Pope Paul VI arrived in Moslem land where Islam has reigned since the fall of Constantinople in 1453.

Within two hours of his arrival, the Pope conferred privately with President Cevdet Sunay and other top officials. Informants said Pope Paul appealed to them to mediate the dispute between Israel and the Arabs.

The 69-year-old Pope was the first pontiff in 12 centuries to visit the former citadel of Eastern Christianity. The last was Pope Constantine I in 711.

Traveling on a four-engine commercial jetliner, Pope Paul arrived three days after a disastrous earthquake spread widespread destruction in Anatolia, southeast of Istanbul, killing at least 86 persons.

Stepping from his plane, the Pope told the Turkish leaders greeting him: "Arriving in this country immediately after a cataclysm that has plunged the nation in mourning, we turn our thoughts first to those who have suffered and ask all to join with us in a moment of observance."

President Sunay, Premier Suleyman Demirel and other high officials stood near the plane's ramp to greet the spiritual ruler of the world's half billion Roman Catholics as daughter.

Seymour School Budget Requires Hike in Tax Rate

Increase of $1.76 Per Thousand Is First Since 1963-64 Period

BY DAVE JENKINS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

SEYMOUR — A $1,476,901 budget, requiring the first tax boost since the 1963-64 fiscal year, was approved after less than 15 minutes of discussion here Monday night at the annual community school district meeting.

The adopted budget, an increase of $283,281 over last year, will demand a tax rate of $16.75 per $1,000 of equalized valuation, an increase of $1.76 over last year's rate of $14.99 per $1,000.

The total tax levy will be $758,676 on $45,294,100 of equalized valuation.

Major areas of increased costs were instruction, particularly teacher salaries; building bond debts, and transportation.

Incumbents Re-elected
Previous to the meeting, three incumbents were re-elected to positions on the board of education.

In the only contested race, Carl Wagner outpolled Mrs. Robert Krause, 151 to 80, for a three-year term representing the towns of Seymour and Maple Grove.

Herman Wussow, board president, received 190 votes unopposed for a three-year term representing the towns of Cicero, Maine and Lessor.

Mrs. Vernon Beyer polled 197 votes unopposed to represent the village of Black Creek for a one-year stint.

Less than 150 persons attended the uncontroversial public hearing, which lasted about 45 minutes.

Only two questions were raised on the budget, and these did not concern the $1,655,000 bond issue for the new Seymour elementary school, which necessitated the tax increase.

No Questions
No questions were voiced either on the details of the new facilities and how they would affect the educational program.

Bids for construction of the new Seymour elementary school and additions to the Black Creek and Nichols grade schools will be accepted in late September or early October, L. C. Martens, superintendent, announced.

Plans for the Nichols and Black Creek additions are nearly completed, with planning at Seymour still in preliminary stages, Martens added.

The new facilities hopefully would be ready for next fall's classes, he said, even if ground breaking didn't start until November.

Student Transfer
He also told the meeting that the Isaar Grade School will be closed this fall and the students brought into Seymour Elementary School Grades seven and eight at Sunny Nook will be transferred to Nichols, he reported.

In answer to another question, Martens said the new district vocational program would challenge the school district to provide better vocational training to students in high school and even in junior high grades.

At a board meeting after the public hearing, it was decided to take bids on a 67-passenger bus along with other bids next month. One of the district's six buses would be traded in.

It also was decided to discontinue operating two district buses and contract two from Seymour Transfer Lines, Inc. Martens was appointed to Although not in the same cell, a 20-year-old Appleton woman joined her husband Monday in the Outagamie County Jail.

Mrs. Nancy J. Steidl, who listed no permanent address, was sentenced to the county jail for 30 days after she was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old Appleton girl.

Her husband, Larry, 25, was sentenced to three months in jail earlier this month on a non-support charge.

Appleton detectives brought the charge against Mrs. Steidl after the woman reportedly checked into a hotel about 1:15 a.m. July 21 and kept the young girl in the room with her until noon.

School Director Praises CESA

New Opportunities Stressed at Clintonville District Meeting

CLINTONVILLE — Director Harland Kirchner reviewed for the approximately 75 electors of the Clintonville School District at Monday night's annual meeting at the Longfellow school, two agencies which he said were not necessarily a part of the school system but related to it in what the school district can do.

He told of some of the programs offered by the Cooperative Education Service Agency (CESA) that have been accepted here.

The service of the mobile diagnostic laboratory has benefited both the public and parochial schools here, he said. "We are moving in the direction to make more opportunities available for our students and participating with other school districts in buying the services of specialists that we cannot afford ourselves. Through CESA this service has become available to us," Kirchner said.

This school year, the district will have the services of a speech correctionist and remedial reading teacher for four days a week plus a psychologist one day a week through CESA.

Kirchner also told the group of his recent involvement in the newly-formed Vocational District No. 12. It is important to have good relationships so people can get the kinds of programs they want, he explained.

The term of Dwain Johnson expired on the audit committee and chairman Laurel Behnke was authorized to appoint a replacement. Behnke appointed Everett Sannes. Other committee men are Stewart Huber and Gilbert Roepke.

Budget Adopted
Clerk Mrs. George (Margaret) McCauley read the proposed 1967-68 budget which was adopted without change.

Treasurer Robert Stieg reported that the auditing firm commended the district for its effectiveness in its budgeting for 1966-67. The total budget expenditures were $1,016,919, and the actual statement shows $1,018,665 or $1,746 difference.

Stieg said the district had more than $8,000 in major expenses that were not budgeted such as hiring a city-school nurse and the increase in the workmen's compensation rate.

The salaries of the board members were continued at present rates, $7.50 per meeting for two meetings a month plus $100 extra for each of the three officers, director, clerk and treasurer.

Kirchner was asked about the board's reason for selling one of the former school buildings to a study committee and is a "co-person other than the one submitting the highest bid for it, game County farm management explained that the board has always felt a concern about the possibility of the buildings being the unexpired term of the late John Buehrens. He has been chairman of the St. Martin Lutheran school board for seven years and a member of the board of parish education of the Missouri Synod, North Wisconsin.

Kirchner has served 15 years on the board. He is vice president of the board of control and chairman of the schools and day. Two cases of oil were churches committee of Clintonville Urban Renewal, and board inside of the building and a pair of pliers were nearby.

Clintonville Residents Petition City Council

Landowners Object to Sewer, Water Improvements on 7th, Pershing Streets

CLINTONVILLE — Eight taxpayers and property owners authorizing advertisement for in the city of Clintonville have taken steps to advise the common council of their strong objection to council action to advertise for sewer and water mains on 7th Street from Maize Street to the city limits and on Pershing Street from 7th Street approximately 400 feet south.

Petitioners John Schafer, Sidnee Lust, Glorienne Pagel, Domenico Piccolo, Henry Mantin, Robert Kubaczky, Louis Nienke and Arnold Berndt object to the action because of the high cost to the landowners involved.

Cast Burden
The petition states further that landowners do not wish to cast the burden of such an investment which will only recover approximately 45 per cent of the cost from the involved landowners, on the rest of city taxpayers.

A letter accompanying the petition addressed to city clerk Lloyd Eggleston indicates that the petitioners cannot understand why the council would consider such a project when only four of the taxpayers who own 40 per cent of the involved frontage are in favor of it.

Four in Favor
The letter states further that if the portion of the affected frontage owned by the city is deleted along with the Blomgren frontage, which would also have to be paid for by city taxpayers, the percentages would then show only four of the taxpayers who own 14 per cent of the involved frontage in favor of the project.

The letter concludes, "We will try to pay our taxes and stay out of your hair, and when we feel that these services are needed, we will be happy to contact you."

Properly owners in the area have their own water and sewer system at the present time.

80-Cent Tax Levy Hike Approved

CLINTONVILLE — A $1,129,431 budget, requiring a tax boost of 80 cents per $1,000 of equalized valuation, was adopted by the electors of Clintonville School District at the annual meeting Monday at Longfellow School.

Electors also selected Joseph Peeters, route 1, Shiocton; Dr. Harry Caskey, 84 Green Tree Road, and Harland H. Kirchner, 139 N. Main St., for three-year terms on the school board.

The budget, which represents a $110,765 rise in spending from last year and was presented to district electors at a public hearing preceding the annual meeting, was approved without change.

$16.59 Rate
To produce the levy, a rate of $16.59 per $1,000 is required. This is applied against the district's 1966 equalized valuation of $50,345,100. This past year a $15.79 rate levied against the 1965 equalized valuation produced the $728,363 needed in taxes. Equalized valuation is up $4,206,500.

Of the three elected to school board terms, Peeters is the only newcomer to the board. A fourth candidate for one of the three vacant positions, Charles Krueger, was defeated.

At an organizational meeting of the board following the annual meeting, board officers were re-elected. Re-elected were Kirchner, director; Mrs. George McCauley, clerk, and Robert Stieg, treasurer.

Dairy Farmer
Peeters is married, the father of six children and owns and operates a 160-acre dairy farm in the Town of Deer Creek. He was a member of the population study committee and is a "co-person other than the one submitting the highest bid for it, game County farm management explained that the board has always felt a concern about the possibility of the buildings being the unexpired term of the late John Buehrens. Waupaca Fire Officials Uncertain Of Home's Owner

WAUPACA — A two-story frame house located approximately one mile west of Sheridan was destroyed by fire early Monday morning, but Waupaca firemen are still attempting to learn the name of the owner of the vacant house.

The fire was reported by neighbors about 2:15 a.m. and when firemen arrived at the scene the entire house was engulfed in flame.

Not only is the cause of the fire undetermined, but later Monday, Fire Chief Bob Hansen was unsuccessful in his attempt to learn who owns the house.

Waupaca firemen remained on the scene for more than five hours but were not able to save the house.

Voting Places

Howard Sell asked if the board had considered last year's request to establish multiple voting places for school elections. Kirchner said the board had discussed this and Supt. K. O. Rawson said he could find nothing in checking the statutes regarding how this would be set up.

He reviewed how items had been cut from the budget for the next school year, and how changes have been made to improve the heating system in the junior high school and that the next phase should be tackled next year as the system is 49 years old.

He reviewed the severe teacher shortage and said two positions remain unfilled, that of an elementary librarian and a second special education instructor.

Fallout Shelter Survey Underway in State

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin lacks public fallout shelter space to protect one-third of its residents in the event of nuclear attack, a state civil defense official said today.

Bruce Bishop, director of the State Bureau of Civil Defense and Disaster Control, said his department is seeking fallout protection for 1.6 million people in small towns and rural suburban zones.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles announced plans for a statewide home survey to determine fallout protection in each residence. Knowles said the million dollar federal civil defense project would be conducted by the U.S. Bureau of Census. The Wisconsin survey is part of a series conducted in 20 states in the last year and a half.

Shelter space for more than three million persons in 4,200 large buildings have been located in the state in the past five years by the national shelter survey, Knowles said. Most of these buildings are in Metropolitan areas.

The survey will collect data about more than one million single, double and triple unit dwellings in Wisconsin.

After a computer analysis, each homeowner will receive a confidential notice of how much protection his residence provides and how he can take advantage of it in the event of radioactive fallout.

The Bureau of Census has mailed questionnaires to residents of 43 Wisconsin communities, while census takers will interview homemakers and inspect dwellings in outlying areas.

"Of 1,066,000 homes in Wisconsin recorded by the 1960 census, an estimated 815,000 have basements which may provide fallout protection," Knowles said.

"Using the Bureau of Census figure of 3.4 persons per average household, therefore, some 2,850,000 residents would have significant fallout protection in their own basements," he said.

A similar mail survey was completed last year in Minnesota, where a record 85 per cent of the questionnaires were returned.

Return Questionnaires
The governor said, "The survey is a vital and integral part of our national defense. I urge each Wisconsin resident to take a few minutes to complete and return the questionnaires." Cities to which questionnaires are being mailed include: Appleton, Ashland, Beaver Dam, Beloit, Brookfield, Brown, Deer, Chippewa Falls, Cudahy, De Pere, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Franklin, Green Bay, Greenfield, Janesville, Kaukauna, Kenosha and La Crosse. Also, Madison, Manitowish, Marinette, Marshfield, Menasha, Menomonee Falls, Milwaukee, Neenah, New Berlin, Oshkosh, Racine, St. Francis, Sheboygan, Shorewood, South Milwaukee, Stevens Point and Superior.

Also, Two Rivers, Watertown, Waukesha, Wausau, Watosa, West Allis, Whitefish Bay and Wisconsin Rapids.

Management Changes Made At Thilmany

William Seymour
New Converting
Production Head

KAUKAUNA — Several changes in the manufacturing division of Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., which became effective July 1, have been announced.

Company officials have reported that William Seymour is now manager of the converting production and services with increased responsibilities including material handling, garage and stores.

R. E. Strauss will work under Seymour as production service manager. In making the announcement, Fred Herbolzheimer Jr., vice president of manufacturing, said Seymour and Strauss would be able to work closely between the new warehouse and production facilities.

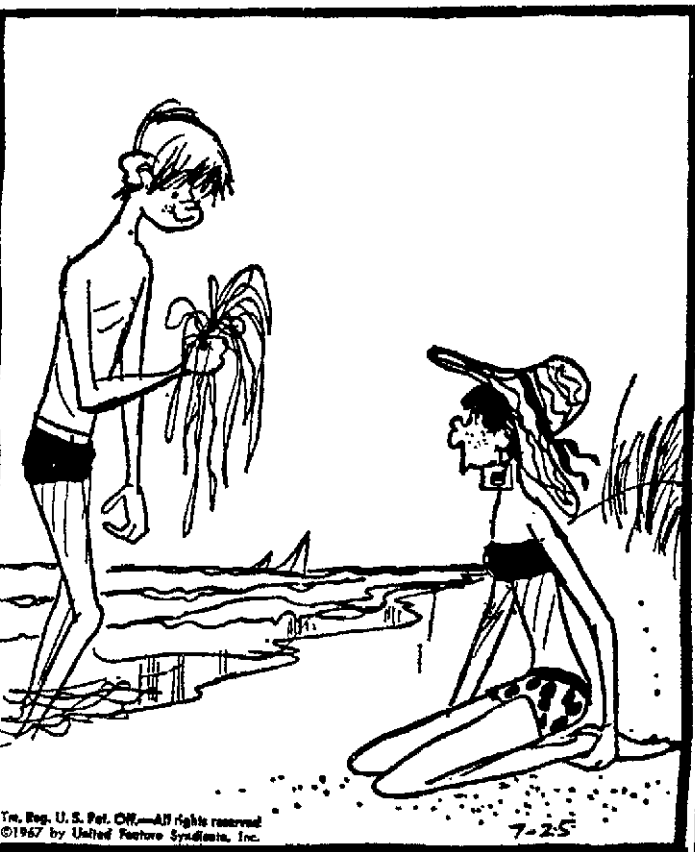

At the same time R.E. Driesen assumed the newly-created post of technical assistant to the manufacturing vice president.

D. W. Brown occupies the new position of administrative assistant to Herbolzheimer. "This will enable Don (Brown) to work closely with me and others of the management team on projects that are becoming more complex as our growth pattern develops," Herbolzheimer said.

Michael T. Aspan has become supervisor of industrial engineering. He is responsible to Brown and will direct the industrial engineering department. The vice president said this will assure continuation of the engineering effort and will allow Brown more time to carry out his new responsibilities.

Incentive Aid Program

Counties Use Bounty Money for Projects

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — County officials of Wisconsin continue to show variety and novelty in the devising of local conservation projects under the state incentive aid program for such works, according to a current list of project approvals issued by the state Conservation Department.

The money involved represents the sums that otherwise would be used for wild animal predator bounties, which the Conservation Department regards as of doubtful value. Some counties continue to use their share of the state funds to finance such bounties, but an increasing number of them are turning to alternative projects they regard as more productive.

Among the recent projects are:

Here We Go:
The acquisition of perpetual easements for public access on a scenic creek, the acquisition and renovation of a spring pond, and the installation of fishing stiles on heavily used streams, in Grant County.

The repair of an old lock chamber in a dam for the convenience of fishermen and boaters, in Green County.

Stream and bank improvement on the Rush River, in Pierce County.

Improvement of water circulation and fish spawning in a marsh area, in Polk County.

The construction and placement of fish cribs in popular local lakes, in Taylor County.

The development of nature trails in county parks and the creation of a wildlife sanctuary, in Calumet County.

The improvement of a rifle range, and pot hole blasting and food plots for the encouragement of ducks, in Oconto County.

Construction of a by-pass for water level control at a county park, in Sheboygan County.

Purchase of a hunter safety and training area, in Walworth County.

Erection of signs denoting public use areas and points of interest, in Wood County.

Young Republican to Represent Appleton

Miss Patricia Sumnicht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sumnicht, will attend the second annual high school model legislature in Madison Friday and Saturday. The event is sponsored by the Wisconsin Young Republicans and Wisconsin Young Democrats. Miss Sumnicht will be representing Appleton's Young Republicans.

More than 150 youths will participate in the session, where both parties have drafted bills to present.

The model legislature is apportioned according to the distribution of the state legislature, so Republicans will have a majority in both houses.

St. John Class Meets for 20-Year Reunion

A Hawaiian theme, with the greeting 'Aloha', was carried out as members of the St. John High School, Little Chute, class of 1947 met for a reunion Saturday evening. The 20-year observance of their class graduation took place at Knights of Columbus Hall, Kaukauna.

The program began with a 6 p.m. cocktail hour and included dinner, a program, and dancing. Every class member was contacted by the reunion committee.

Arranging the event were Mrs. Richard Schuh, Mrs. Greg Hanegraaf, Mrs. Patrick Blohm, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Van Eperen, Eugene Dereks, Mark Dereks and Richard Van Gompel.

There Were Letters from class members who couldn't attend the reunion, pictures of class members as they were during their high school years and newspaper clippings to remind the class of major school events. Looking at the board above are Mr. and Mrs. Roger DeGroot, St. Louis, Mo. At left, left registered class members Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Gompel and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dereks, all of Little Chute.

Palm Trees 'Grown' specifically for the St. John 20-year reunion set a tropic mood for the summer events Saturday evening. Chatting at the party, held at Knights of Columbus Hall, Kaukauna, are Mr. and Mrs. James Van Camp, St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Joseph Semenczuk, Vicksburg, Mich. Mr. Semenczuk is a former athletic director and coach at the school. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Travelers Without Toothpaste

Errant Suitcase Goes Overseas

"I was disappointed I didn't go to Germany with my suitcase," comments Mr. Si O'Connell, 2300 N. Orinda St., discussing her recent trip to New York City and Canada. She had her husband spend 10 days in each country in the "Fun City," Montreal, and Quebec.

With a YMCA tour while some of her baggage crossed the Atlantic Ocean.

"We had a larger suitcase with all our clothes, toothbrushes, hair spray, under wear or any of the little things we needed."

Begin Search

The 17 members of the Y tour stayed in New York two days before departing for Quebec. Tour director Vern Dietel searched for the lost luggage at Kennedy airport, but his efforts and those of the airline were unsuccessful.

"Everything was so confusing," laughs Mrs. O'Connell. "Mr. Dietel kept going to the airport to check on the way, and he found out that a woman from Milwaukee who was enroute to Germany had grabbed the wrong suitcase at Kennedy Airport. I had mine marked with a red tag so I could spot it easily but she must not have looked at it closely enough. Anyway, the suitcase was in Luxembourg and we were in New York."

Replace Items

As the days passed, Mrs. O'Connell and her husband began to realize they would have to replace some items the suitcase before it began a prodigal journey to Europe.

"It was a problem," she said. "We didn't want to buy everything we needed because we figured the suitcase would be returned soon. And yet, we couldn't go without items like toothpaste and hand cream or our clothes. When we were in New York we were sightseeing and going to Broadway plays so we didn't have time to shop. By the time we arrived in Montreal we had to go out and purchase supplies. It was so confusing. It's a good thing our fellow travelers kept ribbing us about the incident so we didn't lose our sense of humor. At first the situation was funny but it became irritating as time went on."

Retrieve Suitcase

The O'Connells and their suitcase finally met the day before the tour left Canada for New York and the return flight. The "reunion" was as confusing as the separation had been, according to Clarence Theis, 116 E. Fourth St., Kaukauna, who was sleuthing the case of the missing luggage with Mr. Dietel.

"After two days of checking, the airline located the suitcase in Luxembourg," he recalls. "However, we were in Quebec when the discovery was made. The bag was flown from Germany to Montreal. We just didn't seem to time it right. When the suitcase arrived in Montreal, it was put on a train to Quebec. Believe it or not, the suitcase arrived in Quebec after our tour group had departed for Montreal. When the suitcase reached Quebec it was put on another train returning to Montreal where we were. Mr. Dietel kept calling airports and checking train stations to find it. It was really something," he explains.

Fly Home

The O'Connells, their suitcase and the tour took a bus train from Montreal to New York the next day. They flew back to Milwaukee July 17 and returned to Appleton by bus.

"We really had a wonderful trip," says Mrs. O'Connell.

"Sometimes an incident like this is enough to mar the whole trip but it didn't. It was fun. My suitcase arrived from Germany unharmed but between New York and Milwaukee it received some scratches and dents. It was all so strange."

Several years ago Mrs. O'Connell had a similar experience with lost luggage.

"I flew to Los Angeles and when I went to claim a small duffle bag I discovered it was on its way to San Francisco. Fortunately it was flown back to Los Angeles on a different plane so it didn't cause too much inconvenience. These things always seem to happen to me," she says wryly. "My husband didn't say too much about our recent experience. If he needed something that was in the other suitcase he only had his head and said he didn't understand how it happened. I told him."

Atmosphere Tense As Merged Board Holds 1st Meeting

Smith of Wausau, Conservation Member, Blocks Attempted Action

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Like uncertain partners in a forced marriage, the men chosen to run the first consolidated state department know of your work is what I of natural resources which will read in the newspapers," he come into being Aug 1 held a said That probably means, he get-acquainted meeting here remarked, that "I am absolute-Monday in an atmosphere of ly ignorant" nervous tension

Both Holmer and Lester P. After an hour of inconclusive discussion, marked by objections from Charles F. Smith of Wausau that the meeting did not have legal status and there fore could not take any effective action, Acting Chairman John Potter of the state board of natural resources adjourned the session and said he will sum-mon another on the first day of next month.

Potter was visibly disappointed by the objections of Smith and others, and announced that he will ask for an attorney merged department will represent general's opinion about the legal powers of the new board before ment its nominees are confirmed by the state senate.

Named By Knowles
The new board was named last week by Gov. Knowles under the provisions of the Kellett reorganization act to direct the affairs of an integrated natural resources conservation agency combining among others the big state conservation department and the state department of resource development. The existing conservation commission and resource development board will disappear altogether next year under the terms of the act.

Smith is a veteran member of the conservation commission who fought the reorganization bill and evidently continues to have some reservations about the idea.

He said he is certain that he cannot act as a member of the new board until he has had senate confirmation and added that he is not sure that he will get it. He indicated he is uncertain about the fate in the senate of the other six nominees of the governor including three members of the resource board and three other members of his commission.

Keep Own Notes
Smith started the discussion almost immediately upon the convening of the meeting when he objected to Potter's suggestion that minutes be kept of the board's deliberations on a tentative agency. Potter had drafted Potter withdrew the suggestion and said he would keep his own notes for the record.

Statehouse lawyers said there is little doubt that the nominees are de facto public officials, can act legally and such, even if the senate defer confirmation decision until fall.

Later Deputy Atty. Gen. Allen Christensen assured the governor's office that he would have an official opinion on the subject when the board holds its next meeting on the first day of August.

Other members of the new board are D. K. Tyler of Phillips, Arthur MacArthur of Janesville and Herbert Behne of Shawano from the conservation commission and besides Potter, Gerard Rohlich of Madison and Russell Lynch of Wausau of the resource development board.

Potter was also rebuffed when he suggested that the board listen to a detailed explanation of the merger bill. Smith said he wanted time to do his own reading and studying. He also asked Freeman Holmer, head of the resource department, to send him copies of department programs and policies. "All I know of your work is what I read in the newspapers," he remarked, that "I am absolutely ignorant."

No Response
Potter got no response when he proposed the selection of a committee to set down guidelines for the selection of the head of the new agency who will be known as secretary under the terms of the law. Voigt and Holmer are certain to be candidates but Potter indicated that the choice probably should not be limited to the two men.

In a formal statement read to the group Gov. Knowles said the new board has the opportunity to enlarge Wisconsin's leadership in the country in natural resources conservation because the legislature has directed a dynamic program which is concerned not only with the traditional programs of fish and game, forests and parks, but takes into consideration the whole gamut of natural resource programs including the total use of our water resources, the impact of pollution on the beauty of our landscape and the new forms of recreation which all citizens want and deserve.

He said the board has the opportunity to become the ecological conscience of the state as urged by the late famed Aldo Leopold, University of Wisconsin naturalist and scientist.

With broad allusion to the fierce fight that attended the consolidation bill, the governor said the new board if it works together, as men of good will can establish a new era in the history of resource management.

Lawmakers Rebuilt, Rewrote Through State Government

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer
MADISON (AP)—Seldom has a legislature left so deep an imprint on the shape of a government and its politics as the one stamped on Wisconsin this session.

The 1967 Legislature, winding up this week, rebuilt the executive branch of government, re-wrote the Constitution to double the stay of state officials, and rearranged the national route to the White House.

State government will shrink from 87 executive agencies to 28 major boards and departments next Tuesday.

Pivotal State

Wisconsin will become a pivotal state in the presidential race with all national contenders required to be on the ballot in the primary next April.

The governor and lieutenant governor will be elected as a team for a four-year term starting in 1970.

Even a measure to lower the voting age to 19 won approval in one house and will be alive when the Legislature returns in October.

In its first seven-month session, the Republican-controlled 1967 Legislature made its mark on Wisconsin history with its triumphs and travails over traffic safety, colored oleo and the first billion-dollar budget.

The most lasting of all its achievements is likely to be the remaking of a government.

The Kellett bill, survivors of a long and bitter siege by conservation officials, is designed to offer a broad blueprint for better efficiency and more economy in government in coming years.

The 28 boards and departments repackaged under the master plan include major mergers of health and welfare, conservation and water, and highways, aeronautics and motor vehicles.

New Departments

There will be new departments with new names, such as Transportation, Justice, Natural Resources, and Health and Social Services.

Even titles change when people don't—the director of taxation will become the secretary of revenue while he sleeps next to the governor.

The bill creates one entirely new agency, the Department of Local Affairs and Development, and provides the broad powers to offer advice to local govern-

Your Money's Worth Start Budget With Full, Accurate Income Idea

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Today, an all-time record 41 of your regular paychecks, per cent of the buying power translated into terms of equal under our control, as consumption—monthly totals, but also any, is "discretionary," meaning income you anticipate from this is the percentage we have dividends, commissions, interest, left over after paying for the necessities of life. This is money we can decide how to spend or save.

In the face of this, millions of affluent American families still fail to make ends meet. Millions never manage to achieve the important personal or family goals they might have reached had they managed their financial resources better. Time after time, important college education funds are frittered away into extra TV sets; money for a really needed vacation trip simply disappears into unneeded, lesser projects.

In recent months, mounting numbers of you have been writing and pleading for ground rules for setting up a budget. Budgeting is back in style to the point where one in four of the 51 finalists I surveyed in the recent Mrs. America pageant said they actually kept "strict" budgets.

So, for those of you who now want to start a budget, and for those who are struggling to revise an unbalanced one, here are the rules for drawing up a budget and making it work.

Anticipate Income

1) Start with four sheets of paper: one to list all the income you anticipate during the budget year; a second to list all your major fixed expenses during the year; a third, for day-to-day expenses; a fourth, for juggling the totals to end up in the black.

2) On sheet No. 1, write down every item of income your family expects during the year. Convert each total to a monthly basis. If both husband and wife work, include the earnings of fixed expenses.

3) List not only the amounts of your regular paychecks, but also any income you anticipate from dividends, commissions, interest, pensions or Social Security benefits, yearly cash gifts from relatives, rent, bonuses, tax refunds due you, amounts owed to you by others and profits from the sale of securities, your car, real estate, or your home. Also list any income your children have agreed to contribute regularly to the family pool.

Record Minimum

4) Estimate each item of income as accurately and realistically as you can. When in doubt, put down the minimum.

5) List only the net amounts of your regular paychecks—after subtraction of withheld income taxes, Social Security contributions, union dues, company pension plan payments, any group insurance or other payments which your company automatically deducts.

6) If your income is irregular, as it will be if you are an artist, writer, teacher, small businessman, divide the total you expect for the year by 12.

7) If you are not certain how much your income will be for the entire year, list only the amounts you can accurately predict for a shorter period, again, converted to a monthly basis.

Keep Perspective

8) If your income increases, don't get carried away. A pay raise always looks bigger than it really is. Before you start over spending your raise, revise your budget income sheet to place the addition in accurate perspective.

9) By the same token, if your income takes an unexpected dive, revise all your monthly totals downward as soon as the drop occurs. Remember, the amounts of money you'll have to spend will be based on the amounts actually coming in.

In listing income, your budget must reflect facts. On this family expects during the year sheet, there's little room for fuzziness. Next, How to figure your work, include the earnings of fixed expenses.
